The toll of the storm in Northern California today stood at one life lost, five injured, many narrow escapes and property loss estimated well over $1,000,000.

EAST'S FLOOD AREA SAVED BY COLD

Return to Winter Prevents Further Damage In Six Eastern States

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Cold weather was welcomed today by the flood area, reached over six eastern states and menacing river districts in New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

In upper New York state, melting snow and the steady downpour which preceded the sharp return to winter weather last night have piled up huge property losses. Ice jams further aggravated the floods.

In the remote country sections, farmers' families were marooned by the swollen rivers and rowboats were being brought to their relief.

POWER TUNNEL IS NEARING COMPLETION

Crews Working Furiously In Big Bore Being Made By Edison Co.

By COPELAND C. BURG For International News Service. HUNTINGTON LAKE, Fresno County, Cal., Feb. 13.—One hundred fifty-two feet to go.

That was the message flashed here today by radiograms over snow-covered peaks from Florence lake, where the Southern California Edison Co., has two crews of 500 men each battling their way night and day through granite rock in two headings of a thirteen and one-half mile tunnel which will mark completion of another unit in its $375,000,000 Big Creek power project, the most costly in world history.

While the two gangs of men are straining muscles in the final drive of brain and brawn against the forces of nature, huge bets are at stake. Many of the men have bet every dollar of their wages for months as to which crew will make the final blast blowing out the last section of rock separating the two headings. Success in the finishing shot on the four year tunnel job will mean a small fortune to many of the workers.

Longest in World

Completion of the tunnel, the longest and biggest in the world, alone costing $17,000,000 will be one of the final steps in the program of the Southern California Edison Co. to develop from the melting snows of the high Sierras enough electric energy to light the homes of 8,000,000 persons.

Racing long blast by blast, excellent progress was being made in the tunnel today and it was estimated that if good fortune attended the operations the final bore would be made early next week.

With motor stages and dog teams a party of newspapermen, motion picture camera men and writers started to the tunnel site to witness the fight of the gambling crews as they worked more than half a mile below the top of a lofty peak under which the tunnel, which is to carry 1500 cubic feet of water a second, is being pushed.

COLLEGE HEAD RAPS 'RACE SUICIDE'

Dr. Eliot Also Calls Love At First Sight Best Marriage Basis

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 13.—Love at first sight is the best, said Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, in a statement in the Harvard alumni bulletin today.

"It seems to me," he wrote, "that most happy marriages begin in some such way as that, in a sudden emotion which takes by surprise the person who feels it. Doubtless, love also grows gradually between friends of long standing, but often in women than in men. Most of the unhappy marriages I have known have taken place for social or pecuniary reasons, without love on the part of one or the other of the pair."

Race Suicide Rapped

Dr. Eliot rapped "race suicide" in this manner: "Race suicide is one of the most formidable things we see as we look forward to the future of civilized society. It is a discouraging fact that the number of children in a family is rapidly diminishing not only in what we call the British-American stock, but all European stocks.

"Marriage is the most important event in life. After full experience and an unusually long period of observation, I believe that marriage and the natural normal result of marriage—the birth and bringing up of children—is infinitely the best career for women and married life the best life for men."

KELLOGG MAY TURN BACK PORTFOLIO

Ambassador to Resign State Office to Save White House Embarrassment

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—President Coolidge has received no intimation that Frank B. Kellogg, American ambassador to Great Britain intended to resign his diplomatic post or decline to become secretary of state on March 4, it was declared officially at the White House today.

By DAVID M. CHURCH For International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Friends of United States Ambassador Kellogg said today they would not be surprised if he offered to resign as secretary of state, if it would save President Coolidge from embarrassment because of the part Kellogg took in signing the Paris financial agreement. Kellogg becomes secretary of state March 4, the date Charles E. Hughes leaves that office.

The American embassy denied that Kellogg was delaying his departure from London to avoid appearing before a Senate committee to explain the Paris agreement.

Not Disturbed

Kellogg will depart from London Feb. 17, as originally scheduled, it was said. The embassy emphasized that Kellogg was not personally disturbed by the senatorial criticism.

If senatorial antagonism toward the agreement and animosity toward Kellogg continue when he arrives in the United States, one of his first acts will be to submit his resignation to the president, to be accepted or declined, friends said.

The embassy commented today upon a statement in the London Telegraph. The Telegraph said changes made in the Paris agreement after it had been signed were attached to the main agreement and not incorporated in it.

Trivial Changes

These changes, the Telegraph said, were deletion of the words "after deductions of sums allotted for other treaty charges." These words were in the paragraph which awarded the United States two and one quarter per cent of the Dawes annuities.

The embassy said these changes were "trivial." The embassy emphasized further that the American delegation was responsible for article 27 of the agreement. This article specifically provides that the agreement does not affect other treaties.

HARD ROCK IS BARRIER TO PROGRESS ON SHAFT

May Be Late on Sunday or Some Time Monday Before Collins Is Reached

BULLETIN

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 13.—Floyd Collins is still living today. A man passed along the narrow crawl-way to the farthest point before his progress was blocked, listened and heard the prisoner breathing and groaning. His report was made officially under oath and announced by General H. H. Denhardt at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

"One deep gasp and a low groan," was what the man who dared the passage after it had been condemned as a human death trap, reported. "But it was not like the moans of a person suffering in a hospital."

The man, Edward Brenner of 411 East Fifth street, Cincinnati, said he lay in the passage some time listening to the workmen in the shaft and he gave it as his opinion that the shaft would penetrate almost directly above Collins' prison.

He called to Floyd several times, he said, but received no answer. Between the groans, he said, he could hear no sounds except long, deep regular breathing. Brenner's report of Collins is the first which has been brought out of the depths of Sand Cave since the radio test failed some days ago.

Rescue Work Delayed

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 13.—Before the erroneous report that Floyd Collins had been rescued was entirely cleared away this afternoon a new estimate of the length of time which probably would be required to reach him, terminating late Sunday or some time Monday, was issued by H. T. Carmichael, director.

"The worst material yet encountered lies just under the present level of the bottom of the shaft, he declared, and this will cut the normal rate of progress—ten feet

Prohibition Agent A. E. McCoy was summoned before action was taken and said defendant was arrested September 23, 1924, on a charge of having sold two drinks of wine to an operative. Assistant District Attorney Gerald Johnson said the papers in the case had been in his possession only a few days.

"Send the man home," said the judge.

Silence New Cure for Tuberculosis of Larynx

LONDON, Feb. 13.—A new cure for tuberculosis of the larynx, a form of the disease which has hitherto been nearly always fatal, was described by Sir St. Clair Thomson, laryngologist to King Edward VII. sanatorium, Midhurst, Sussex, in an address to the Royal college of Physicians.

The chief methods employed are silence and whispers. By reduction of the voice to whispers fifty patients were cured. One-third of the patients in whom complete silence was enforced were cured. The silence treatment is more successful with women than with men because of the women's greater endurance and patience in the ordeal.

Costume Ensembles That Smart Women Are Choosing

The afternoon ensemble is featured either in the combination of a plain colored silk with a printed crepe, or in a two fabric combination in a self tone, a two color, or two tone effect. Crepe satin and printed crepe, Fulgurante and Crepe de Chine, Ottoman and Chiffon are the combinations most favored. For sport ensembles, Kasha cloth is the big medium in pastel colors of mauve, rose, ecru, green or in natural unbleached shade. Bordered Kashas are noted in this group, the borders being carried out in wide striped effects, and in two and three tone combinations. Coats of the ensemble costumes are interesting more in detail and trim than in cut. Double and triple tier collars and revers and linings form a vested or even a double coat effect.

BRAND'S PARK GIFT LAUDED BY WILSON

Park Board Head Says It's Greatest Thing Ever Happened to City

A special meeting of the park board will be called, probably for tomorrow afternoon, to consider the gift to the city by Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brand of an 800-acre park in the Verdugo foothills. L. H. Wilson, of 204 Milford street, chairman of the board, said today, on his return from a two-week business trip to Kansas City. The meeting will be held at the City Hall.

"This is one of the greatest things that ever happened to Glendale," said Mr. Wilson. "It is wonderful to get news like this the minute I arrive back home. The park board couldn't have found a better site anywhere in the city, at any price. Brand park is worth fully $500,000 and will be worth double that in a few years. It will put Glendale in a commanding position among Southern California cities and will draw thousands of families here. "One of the greatest problems of a modern city is the park problem. Mr. and Mrs. Brand have solved this problem forever, for Glendale, by their magnificent gift. Their names will go down in local history as among the outstanding benefactors of the Jewel City."

Midwest Conditions
Speaking of conditions in the middle west, Mr. Wilson said they were better than in recent years. "The people are prosperous and they are coming to California in hordes," he said. "Don't let anyone deceive you about that. The lying propaganda about hoof-and-mouth disease, plague and famine have deceived very few, and those few who have been deceived are not the kind who would come to California anyway."

"The great masses of people in the middle west brand as ridiculous the rumors they have heard. They have friends out here who have written them the truth, and they believe their friends above wild rumors circulated by those who are the enemies of California."

While in Missouri, Mr. Wilson visited his old home at Excelsior Springs.

JOHN BROWN REACHES CITY FOR MEETINGS

Evangelist Arrives From Alabama and Preaches to Large Audience at Tabernacle; Was Here Before

Rev. John E. Brown from Arkansas arrived in Glendale yesterday afternoon to take charge of the revival services in the tabernacle on North Kenwood street, and last night preached a rousing sermon to a throng of 4,000 men, women and children who had gathered there to welcome the great evangelist and hear his message.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds of the Glendale Presbyterian church, president of the Glendale Ministerial union, introduced the speaker with the words:

"To multitudes everywhere in this land, this man is not only a preacher of righteousness but a friend beloved. Brother Brown, here they are. They are yours."

Rev. Brown took the platform, a man of six feet tall, heavily built, his face wreathed in smiles, his eyes flashing, no hint of fatigue in any movement or gesture, though he had arrived in Glendale from Birmingham, Ala., only that afternoon, following the wind-up of one of the most strenuous revivals of his career.

In Glendale before

"Coming to Glendale is getting to be a habit," he began. "How many remember when I was here in 1913? Hundreds of hands went up. And how many remember when I was here in 1921? The audience was a sea of hands. "It's warm here," said someone, while the collection was being taken.

"It's always warm when you get to operating on people!" laughed Rev. Brown.

After Lorin G. Jones had sung "Love Opened Wide the Door for Me," Rev. Brown took his Bible and turned to 1 Kings, 18:42-46, wherein is recounted how Elijah went up Mt. Carmel and prayed to the Lord for rain—

"And it came to pass in the meanwhile that the heaven was black with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain."

"Folks, don't worry about rain," he said. "It always rains where I am. I hadn't any more than entered California early yesterday morning, than it began raining!"

"Now, I want to flash on the canvas of your imagination a picture, how the land of Israel had turned to the worship of idols, how Elijah had asked the Lord to close the doors and windows of the skies for three and a half years, how there was no rain, no dew, how every green thing in that land of famine withered and perished as though a conflagration had swept it bare—and then, when Elijah saw that there must be rain or the now chastened children of Israel would perish, he went up Mt. Carmel, cast himself on his knees before the Lord and prayed for rain, and the rain came."

"The ancient story recounted in 1 Kings is applicable in many ways today. Those who have sown the wind must reap the whirlwind. I am an optimist. A man can't believe in God and not be an optimist. But the world is face to face with a crisis. America is face to face with a crisis. The church is face to face with a crisis. The nations of the earth have been made spiritually as well as financially bankrupt by the world war. We have sown the wind and are reaping the whirlwind.

"Multitudes of men have forgotten God," declared Rev. Brown in a solemn voice, and the tabernacle became hushed, tense. "God, and God only, knows how many tragedies there are in the world today, in America today, in the church today, in this audience tonight. For the next few years, the word, America, the church, the individual—all are going to pass through one of the greatest crises in history!"

"Amen! Amen!" came the murmurs of the audience, as men and women, deeply moved, opened and closed their lips, uttering the word in prayer.

"What do we need?" demanded Rev. Brown. "We need an old-fashioned Holy Ghost revival! That is the only thing that will stand the test, in this day and age. It isn't the ideals of Jesus that saves souls. It is the death of Jesus. We must get back to the cross. We must cast ourselves on our knees before the Lord as Elijah did, and pray for rain, for there is a spiritual famine in the land that threatens the very roots of humanity."

"How ought we to pray? There is a vast difference between saying your prayers and praying. The elements that go to make up sky-piercing prayer are consecration, concentration and faith. Analyze your own prayer. Has it these elements? Does anything happen when you pray? Oh, I tell you, folks, God does not hear all who say prayers—but he hears all who pray."

Rest His Hands

"Pray! Pray! Pray! until the power of God comes down on Glendale and there is a great rain of spiritual revival. Behold, there ariseth a little cloud out of the sea, like a man's hand. Folks, pray, pray with your whole hearts and your whole souls—and we will see a revival here in Glendale that will make the angels sing!"

Rev. Brown brought his service to a close with a benediction. As the great audience passed thoughtfully out of the tabernacle and went to their hundreds of homes, the choir sang devotional hymns, led by Lorin G. Jones. The invocation last night was offered by Rev. Maurice M. Johnson of the Broadway Methodist church. It was announced by Rev. Brown before he began his sermon that the daytime meetings will not start until next week. There will be the regular 7:30 o'clock services tonight and Saturday night, he said, and Mondays will be the rest days of the campaign.

BURGLARS ENTER TWO CITY HOMES

Palm Drive, Dryden Street Residents Robbed by Night Prowlers

Burglars entered two Glendale homes last night, taking jewelry and household articles. The home of Mrs. E. C. Nickel of 545 West Dryden street and the home of Roy Coalson of 600 Palm drive were the scenes of the burglaries. Fingerprints were found at both houses and Sergeant F. C. Williams, fingerprint expert of the Glendale police department, secured photographs of the prints this morning.

Dennis of 356 1/2 West California avenue was obliged to borrow clothing or else go home from the Harvard High school last night in a barrel, after his clothing had been stolen from a locker, while he was playing basketball.

Purse Snatcher

Arthur H. Dibbern of 121 North Brand boulevard handed to the police an empty brief-case, found near the Knights of Columbus clubhouse at 320 East Lomita avenue. The police believe this is the brief-case that was stolen from Robert Parod of 611 East Broadway, Wednesday night, when an overcoat, robe and set of tools were taken from his car, while parked in front of the clubhouse.

GORDON WHITNALL TO SPEAK AT ATWATER

Chairman of Los Angeles City Planning Commission to Address Members of Improvement Association

G. Gordon Whitnall, chairman of the Los Angeles City Planning commission, will be the main speaker at the semi-monthly meeting of the Atwater Park Community Improvement association. The meeting will take place Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Atwater Park Baptist church, corner of Perilla and Tyburn avenues. Mr. Whitnall will discuss proposed improvements in the Atwater district over which his commission has jurisdiction. These will include a discussion of the proposed new bridges across the Los Angeles river, sewer problems, a pedestrian tunnel at Atwater avenue and Glendale boulevard and other suggested improvements.

One of the largest crowds in the history of the association is expected to attend the meeting and hear Mr. Whitnall. The speaker has always been a friend to the Atwater district and has assisted officers of the improvement body in a number of instances.

Mr. Whitnall is only one of the important speakers lined up by President Arthur M. Gilman and his staff for community meetings in the near future. Councilman Miles Gregory is scheduled to talk at an early meeting.

To Hold Party Tonight

A community hard-times party and box social will be given at the Atwater school tonight at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Atwater Parent-Teacher association. PAGE THE PRINCE

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The Scotch laborite representative, Kirkwood, raised an uproar in the House of Commons when he criticized the appropriation asked for the trip of the Prince of Wales to South America and Africa.

IMPROVEMENT BODY NAMES OFFICERS

Randall Elected President Of Northwest Society;
Resolutions Made

The following officers for the ensuing year were elected at the annual meeting of the Greater Northwest Improvement association last night: J. H. Randall, president; Mrs. J. A. Gyger, secretary; C. L. Jenkins, treasurer, and J. A. Gyger, vice-president.

In accordance with the constitution and by-laws of the organization, three additional members were elected to serve with the four officers on the executive committee. They were: E. D. Knuchell, H. J. Kohl, and Percy D. Farland. The treasurer's report showed the association's finances in good shape.

Reports from standing committees showed the city engineer's office has submitted to the Pacific Electric Co., plans and specifications for the improving of Glendale boulevard inasmuch as that company is lowering its tracks from Grand View avenue westerly to the city limits. It is expected that within one or two weeks definite word may be received from the Pacific Electric Co. as to whether they will agree to accept the property owners' proposition to relieve them of their share of the assessment for improving the street in exchange for lowering the tracks.

Postal Delivery

The postoffice officials in Washington plead "no funds available until July 1" to extend the house-to-house mail service to more parts of the northwest section of Glendale, but Postmaster Jackson has taken the matter up requesting the matter be reviewed and some way found to afford immediate relief.

'ALWAYS READY'

The New York Herald-Tribune gives a graphic account of a demonstration in Madison Square Garden the other day when a boy of 14, introduced by the anarchist, Benjamin Gitlow, addressed an audience of 12,000 at a Lenin memorial meeting and a chorus of 400 New York school children cheered and sang the "Internationale."

After paying extravagant tributes to Lenin the boy orator said: "It is our duty to mobilize the children to fight against the capitalistic system. It is our duty to keep the minds of our friends clear of the poison put into them by the capitalistic system. It is our duty to join the class struggle. We extend our arms across to the young pioneers of Russia, to the young Leninists, and to tell them to prepare and always remember our slogan, 'Always ready.' We must always be ready for the day to strike. Down with capitalism! Down with the system! Up with the Soviet republic!"

Sovietism will never be successful in America. It will never have any great number of advocates, for the people of this nation are too intelligent and hold their liberty too dear to surrender it for chaos such as exists in Russia today. Sovietism and civilization do not go hand in hand. But we will have the menace of anarchy always with us as long as boys are taught to shout, "We must always be ready to strike." Children believe what they are taught and will do what they are told. What a pity that the minds of children should be perverted and poisoned with the doctrines of communism and anarchy.

But they will outgrow it. Radicalism in its most virulent forms is a sort of disease that wears itself out. The Literary Digest asks why these orators and leaders of mobs are always so young and then goes on to tell what becomes of them. Following the lives of a number of former revolutionists and anarchists they were found living quietly with their families, acknowledging that their old-time methods were defective and futile. Big Bill Haywood, when last heard of in Russia, was longing for the freedom of Leavenworth prison and Emma Goldman's dream of a Russian paradise was rudely shattered.

WHERE IS JUSTICE?

Colonel Forbes, former head of the Veterans' Bureau, has been sentenced to two years in prison and the payment of $10,000 fine. This is the limit the law imposes for his particular offense and all he will have to pay, even after he has exhausted all his rights of appeal.

Forbes violated the trust imposed upon him by his friend, the late President Harding. He is the most despicable of thieves, for he stole funds that were to be used for the care and maintenance of our soldiers who were maimed in the war.

The meanest man is always being discovered. But surely the search may end now. No one meaner or more contemptible than this man Forbes could be found. The hold-up man who steals a poor working-girl's purse is a gentleman beside him. The one who would take candy from a baby is noble and beneficent.

It is preposterous that the law does not provide punishment adequate for such a crime as his. And to think that men and women have been given more severe sentences for stealing a loaf of bread or a bottle of milk for their hungry children. In the state of California a man may be given a sentence of from one to fifteen years for stealing a loaf of bread. Is it any wonder that we hear the cry that there is no justice?

LOVE OF DRAMA

How we love drama! How interested we were in watching the dog teams in their race with death toward Nome and how thrilled we were when they reached there. How breathlessly we awaited word of the success or failure of the rescuers of Floyd Collins. Though far away, our sympathy went out to those who suffered, as was right and proper. But was it so much sympathy for the victims of circumstances as interest in the struggle?

Last year more than 16,000 people were killed in the United States in automobile accidents, and we will venture to say that the deaths of all these 16,000 people did not attract much more attention than the plight of the one young man who was held prisoner by a rock in a cave. We read of the automobile accidents, many of them much nearer home than Alaska or Kentucky, and yet we could forget them immediately.

We do not mean to say that people are heartless or unsympathetic, for humanity is always ready to hold out a helping hand to distress. But it was the drama, more than anything else, in the Alaska and Kentucky cases that kept us interested. When a man is killed by an automobile there is no sustained conflict, no suspense, no drama, and if we do not know the victim we can forget the circumstances immediately.

PASSING OF THE WEATHER CARD

The Daily Weather card, after an existence of forty-four years, has been discontinued, having fallen under the keen eye of the federal budget bureau. The necessity for this forecast has long since passed, and, while the expense of issuing the card may have been comparatively small, this is one of the many small leaks being stopped by the economy program of the administration.

The mailing of the weather bureau cards was inaugurated June 18, 1881. In those days there were few daily newspapers and the radio was undreamed of. These government forecasts posted in the town store or the village postoffice were widely read. Several years ago the press associations assumed the duty of wiring official forecasts to newspapers. And now that all necessity for the weather cards has been removed their use has been discontinued.

FROM MOTHER'S STANDPOINT

Stage-struck girls may find something over which to ponder in a recent statement by the former Irene Castle, according to the Milwaukee Journal. The famous dancer was asked by a reporter if her little daughter would be allowed to go upon the stage, should she show evidence of having inherited her mother's talent. She answered, "Oh, I don't think so. I am hoping that will never happen."

Irene Castle has enjoyed the plaudits of the public for a good many years. No doubt applause has meant much to her, but as a mother she can estimate its true worth. It is significant that she should say, "I hope my little daughter will never show evidence of having inherited my talent."

POUNDS OF FLESH

Fishing

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Life is more like fishing than it is like anything else.

All progress is by fumbling and experiment rather than by logic and intelligence. We are not to blame for our color, our home, our race, or for not being born the Prince of Wales or otherwise born to great place. But we are responsible within certain limits.

We are not responsible for not being a fish, or a bird. That is a matter wholly beyond our control. How we were born and where we were born depends upon others than ourselves. But we should not forget that a great deal depends upon ourselves.

There are rays of light on the other side of red and beyond violet, but we cannot see them. There are doubtless beauties in the universe that lie beyond the capabilities of the human eye, so there are sounds too low and too high for the human ear.

Our responsibilities lie within a certain gamut, but they are true none the less.

Those who are most likely to be successful are those who realize both their responsibilities and their limitations. It is necessary not only for a man to work hard, but for him to offer his product in the best markets. To be a good fisherman he must not only know how to fish, skillfully, but he must know where the fish are.

There is no fishing where the fish are not. You may be an expert caster and select your worm or fly, and have all manner of patience, but it will do you no good unless the fish are there to bite.

The most remarkable thing about Jesus is not only that He said such wonderful things, but that He found so many people who believed Him and at least partially understood Him.

In other words, His greatness consisted not only in His wisdom, but in His knowledge of the human race.

It is necessary not only for the sculptor to have a beautiful ideal and dream and a knowledge of the plastic art, but it is necessary for him to know how to use his clay.

In this way the remarkable thing about Paderewski is not that he can play the piano so well, but the extraordinary thing is the number of people who appreciate his playing.

A proper appreciation is the test of greatness.

What good does it do you to be an expert wood carver if nobody wants your wood carving? So in what we produce an eye should always be had toward the demand of the people who use our product. If there is no demand, there is not much use in making the product.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

The superman—will he ever come?

Shaw, the skeptical Puritan, expressed the belief that if the superman is to come, he must be born of woman by mankind's intentional and well-considered contrivance.

He opines that the real superman will snap his fingers at all men's present trumpery of ideals, right, duty, honor, justice, religion, even decency, and accept moral obligations beyond human endurance.

But Shaw is not a biologist; Thomas Huxley is. And Huxley does not doubt that man, as a "political animal," is susceptible of a vast amount of improvement, by education, by instruction, and by the application of his intelligence to the adaptation of the conditions of life to his higher needs.

"But," Huxley opined, "so long as he remains liable to error, intellectual or moral;

"So long as he is compelled to be on guard perpetually against the cosmic forces, whose ends are not his ends, without and within himself;

"So long as he is haunted by inextinguishable memories and hopeless aspirations;

"So long as the recognition of his intellectual limitations forces him to acknowledge his incapacity to penetrate the mystery of existence;

"So long the prospect of attaining untroubled happiness, or of a state which can, even remotely deserve the title of perfection, is as misleading an illusion as ever was dangled before the eyes of poor humanity."

What lies before the human race, it appears to Huxley, is a constant struggle to maintain and improve, in opposition to the state of nature, the state of art of an organized polity; in which, and by which, man may develop a worthy civilization, capable of maintaining and constantly improving itself, until the evolution of our globe shall have entered so far upon its downward course that the cosmic process resumes its sway; and, once more, the state of nature prevails over the surface of the planet.

757 BANKS IN LAST YEAR FAILURES

Commercial Houses Number 20,615 Says Federal Reserve Reports

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Commercial failures in 1924 numbered 20,615 concerns and 757 banks, the Federal Reserve board announced today.

Liabilities involved totaled $543,224,559 exclusive of banks, whose capital stock and surplus aggregated $46,642,000.

Some of the banks will open without loss to creditors or are already re-organized.

Liabilities of commercial failures were slightly above the total for 1923, according to the board, and considerably higher than the level for years prior to 1920. In 1922 there were 23,676 commercial failures, with $626,896,000 liabilities, while 19,625 firms collapsed in 1921 with record liabilities of $627,402,000.

"The advance in defaulted indebtedness to comparatively high levels in recent years reflects partly an increase in the number of failures, but to a greater extent an increased average amount of indebtedness involved in each failure," the board said.

Of the bank failures 79 per cent were not members of the Federal Reserve system; of member banks 129 were national and thirty-four state banks or trust companies.

Vines Destroyed In Raisin Growers' War

FRESNO, Cal., Feb. 13.—Following the destruction of about fifteen acres of vines on the 400-acre vineyard of K. Arkelian, ten miles south of Madera, President Ralph P. Merritt today issued an "urgent warning" to all communities participating in the Sun Maid Raisin Growers' referendum to do everything possible to prevent violence.

A mob, estimated at about fifty men, armed with axes raided the Arkelian vineyard and razed a choice portion of it. Sheriff John H. Barnett of Madera reported today. In some places all the vines were destroyed, and in others every other stock.

San Jose Mission Will Get First Renovation

OAKLAND, Feb. 13.—Mission San Jose, a picturesque California landmark, thirty miles south of here will undergo its first renovation since it was erected by the Spanish padres in 1791. The mission contains historic records and in its ancient graveyard there are monuments bearing the names of some of the men who opened the gates to western civilization.

After the complete restoration of Carmel mission, in Monterey county, in which the famous padre, Junipero Serra, is buried, San Juan Baptista mission, in San Benito county, was restored. The San Jose mission is next on the program.

Clergyman Is Greeted With 'Throw Him Out'

ST. JOHNS, Pa., Feb. 13.—"Put him out!" and "We want your resignation!" greeted the Rev. Harry F. Ueberroth, pastor of St. John's Reformed church, when he appeared on the pulpit, after having been induced by the consistory to reconsider his resignation, offered some time ago, and to remain as minister for a temporary period on payment of $500 salary.

Mr. Ueberroth was even assailed with the cry, "Throw him out!" from different parts of the church when he opened the service.

"There is a legal way to do this," replied the clergyman, who retired from the edifice and did not appear for the other services of the day.

Frisco Waiters To Be Unique in Uniforms

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—Unique tailoring will feature the new styles of waiters' uniforms that will appear in leading San Francisco restaurants.

The new garment is cut on the lines of the tuxedo, but is longer and closes with three buttons below a slightly smaller expanse of starched shirtfront. In most places the new coat will have two pockets. In some, where the rule of "pay the cashier" is strictly enforced, it will have the pockets sewed up, as at present.

German Mine Blast Is Cause of 129 Deaths

DORTMUND, Germany, Feb. 13.—Total deaths from Germany's worst mine disaster were placed at 129 this afternoon. This includes bodies removed and eight dead miners still in the tunnels.

With a view to quicker delivery, Germany and the Baltic States recently made an agreement with the International Sleeping Car Co. to carry postal parcels.

Snow Affords Good Outlook To Irrigation

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—With seven feet of snow on the level at Summit, ten feet in the Siskiyou mountains and sixteen feet reported at Crater lake, the outlook for summer irrigation is better than for many years, according to Weather Observer N. R. Taylor.

A storm still continues in the Sierras with intermittent rain in the valley. Snow plows are being operated by the Southern Pacific to keep tracks open over the mountains.

The Sacramento river stands at twenty-three feet and is slowly receding. No further flood menace is anticipated unless heavy rains continue.

RATS OVERRUN DISTRICT IN CHICAGO

Thousands Of Big Rodents Found By Workers Near Produce Markets

By O. L. SCOTT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Surprised by the offensive viciousness of Chicago's rats, the city board of health is looking for a Pied Piper to lead to destruction the swarms of disease-carrying rodents which are infesting sections of the city in unprecedented numbers.

Every man, woman and child in Chicago has his rat. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen advises. Three million of the creatures are crowded into the city, the greater number of them in what probably is the greatest rat paradise in all the world—the South Water street produce market district.

And here a fight to the death against the rat population is being waged. It started when workmen, wrecking the buildings of the old street to make way for a double-decked boulevard, laid down their tools and refused to face the vicious creatures. They were admittedly afraid of the huge rats which swarmed over the place.

Live on Produce

"The provision markets along South Water street have long supplied the best table de hotel for rats, and here down under the commission houses, dozens of generations of the creatures have enjoyed a veritable paradise," Dr. Bundesen declared.

"They grow as big as cats; huge, sleek, black fellows, as fat as a corn fed steer."

To hear those who've been employed by the city to fight these animals, it is no wonder the workmen were afraid of them. The invasion of the huge city is one fight after another, with rats coming out second best, but only opposition from the big fellows that gives the creeps to ordinary mortals.

But the professional rat killers with their poisons and their gases are getting the better of the critters, who either are dying, or scurrying to new sections of the city. Thousands are being killed each night, in order to put an end to the terrorism which the creatures have established in the sections where workmen are wrecking.

Hard Rock Is Barrier To Rescue of Collins

every twenty-four hours—to five feet or less.

Carmichael denied that he had told any one that the crevice "might bring out Collins by noon."

"Even if the crevice had opened into the passageway where Collins lies, which I never seriously believed, it would have taken us another twelve hours to enlarge it sufficiently to permit a man to reach him," he said.

"It was just a faint hope, but we sent the men in there to make sure. Another twenty-four hours at least will pass before we get to where we can expect to find Collins."

In an official communique issued shortly before work had been resumed in the shaft, the depth was given at fifty feet, "the last three feet to be trimmed and timbered."

Results In Failure

The objective, it was stated, was to find a cave or passageway that would lead to a shortcut to Collins.

"With that end in view," the statement continued, "we have placed the core drill over the shaft itself so that we would not be guided entirely by the findings eight feet from the shaft. The result of this core drill, which started at a depth of fifty feet and stopped at seventy-one feet not only did not disclose an entrance to the long-looked-for passageway, but showed us that we had by far the most tortuous and difficult ground in the remaining twenty feet of the shaft, which has been encountered up to this time."

May Take Days

At the sixty-foot level, Carmichael said, side drifting will be started in an effort to find a nine-foot cavern indicated by the test drill.

It is possible, he believes, that this may prove a kind of "clearing house" of passage-ways, one of which may lead to Collins' prison. Exploration of these, even after they are found, may require days.

The first seven feet directly under the shaft level, the drill shows, consists of huge boulders imbedded in soft mud. The next three feet is solid limestone, through which the drills cut with difficulty.

If the side drifting sixty feet down reveals no passage-way, cutting of the next ten feet will be resumed.

Flying Finn Breaks Three More Records

BUFFALO, Feb. 13.—Paavo Nurmi broke world records—not merely broke them by fractions of seconds, but shattered them by many full seconds in his special event of a meet staged here last night by the One Hundred and sixth Field Artillery Athletic association.

The records were the 2000 yard mark, which he reduced from 5:00 4-5 to 4:53 3-5; the 2000 meter mark which he cut from 5:33 to 5:22 2-5, and the mile and a quarter mark, which he dragged from 5:30 1-5 to 5:23 4-5, six and two-fifths seconds faster than it had ever been run before.

Valparaiso and Casablanca, Chile, are to be connected by a concrete highway.

INAUGURATION

Tomorrow night we inaugurate a new era in the history of the growth and development of Glendale Avenue and in which Glendale as a city takes on new interest and new hope for a greater prosperity.

An invitation is herewith extended to everyone to join with us in an auto parade of inspection of our new ornamental street lights and to be present when the electric current is switched on and to further participate with us in the program and ceremonies which will formally inaugurate Glendale Avenue as one of the principal thoroughfares of this city.

We are likewise inaugurating a new season—a season when all nature as well as mankind puts on new dress—a new aspect of freshness, clearness, fitness.

Below are a few interesting notices from business and professional men and women of East Glendale who bid you welcome and who can serve you in starting off the new season with the proper appearance of prosperity and good living.

Charm to the small home

A home, though modest in size, can have its full share of charm and individuality, possessing inherent dignity. Here, for instance, is a modified English design containing a living room, dining room, bedroom, kitchen, breakfast nook, screen porch and bath. It really costs no more to build than an ordinary house containing the same amount of floor area yet it has a distinctive appearance. The thoughtful home-builder wisely chooses a Pacific Home realizing that his money will buy more value and he will be relieved of all responsibility during the course of construction. Cost of erecting the above home or any other size house on request.

ARGUMENT GIVEN ON SCHOOL BONDS

Member of Planning Body Advises Vote Favoring Proposed Buildings

Editor The Evening News—I have no children now going to school (I reared four and sent them to the public schools), but I am for the school bonds no matter what the taxes are, for the very good reason that a good school system advertises a city better than any other thing increases the population and increases values. The community that has good schools never loses the opportunity to advertise them—Why?

By providing a well thought-out, comprehensive school system (which has been done) we make our city attractive to outside people with children who will come to Glendale to make their future home, thereby increasing our population and making our overhead expenses smaller per capita, and this in the end lowering our taxes instead of raising them. Also more families coming to Glendale make more business for our merchants and storekeepers and the more business they have the smaller will be their overhead and taxes.

A farming community does not require density of population to prosper, but in the case of our own particular city we can all see where it will be to our advantage to have our empty lots occupied by new homes, which are going up all over the city at the present time. Taxes are not keeping people from coming to Glendale and up to the present probably our school system hasn't either. But if our school system is not as good as in other cities and we allow half-day sessions and overcrowded conditions to become worse, there is no doubt but that such a condition will, as the Citizens' Bond committee has pointed out, work out disastrously for Glendale educationally and commercially.

Good Advertising
What is the use of raising a lot of money as has been done recently for an advertising campaign to attract outsiders to our city, and then turn down our school bonds? If we do not provide school facilities, instead of attracting people we will lose some of those that are already here.

The money we are going to vote for bonds is going to be utilized by responsible school boards, elected by ourselves, in the construction of beautiful and permanent school buildings that will grace our city and encourage the people to build more homes.

Glendale has been advertised so extensively and so well as the fastest growing city in the United States (and I claim in the world)—and now what impression would be given if we fail to carry the school bonds? If we expect to grow we must live up to the reputation we have established and provide adequate and convenient school facilities to take care of our present and immediate future needs.

Our schools are now sadly overcrowded with a large number of the children going only half days so that all may be able to attend. If we are going to grow as we have, and as everyone living here thinks we are, then we must have all we are asking for. Do we want to acknowledge to the outside world that we are bankrupt and are so poor, after the past years of unprecedented prosperity, that we cannot add a few cents to our taxes and build schools to properly educate our children?

Shining Example
On January 30 we read in the papers that Hibbing, Minn., with a population of only 17,000, had constructed a high school costing $4,360,000, containing 52 class rooms, laboratories, huge gymnasium, theatre, swimming pool, etc. Hibbing takes a pride in this achievement and uses it as an asset and an advertisement.

We have a population of 55,000 and haggle over $2,400,000—for shame—what are some of our citizens thinking of? Glendale has outgrown its present school system and cannot for a moment afford to listen to the lamentations of such non-progressives as Mr. Sherer.

This gentleman criticizes others for taking an active part in this bond election but he forgets that he, himself, is a public servant and has prospered on account of the city's growth and the taxpayers' forbearance with him—propriety would call for a less arrogant attitude on his part.

He may mean well but he is simply knocking the city that has been his benefactor. He has held his position as city treasurer so long that he fancies he must decide how the taxpayers' money should be spent and advise what we need and what we do not need. Rather presumptuous on his part.

I do not desire to touch on personalities, but in view of the fact that so many new people have come to Glendale in the past three years, it is only fair that it should be known to these voters that Mr. Sherer is generally opposed to all bond issues no matter of what nature, and particularly school bonds. He is of the old school. He has tried to frighten the voters about school combines, has made unwarranted insinuations, and altogether has shown bad taste in his attacks on the efficiency of our school management in Glendale. Also he very likely believes the bonds may not carry, in which event he, no doubt, will take pride as the man who helped defeat them.

Fifty Cents Month
However, he is mistaken, for the masses believe in schools, have confidence in Glendale's school management and the school board members, whom they elected, and will vote for the bonds—all of them.

The increase in taxes if both bonds carry will be not much more than 50 cents a month for the average working man owning his own home. Why the parents in my neighborhood have to lay out $19.80 per child a year for transportation alone to send them to 7th and 8th grades, because there is not in Glendale a school north of Wilson avenue nor west of Brand boulevard, that teaches beyond the 6th grade. To send the children to the high school it costs my neighbors $23.40 a year carfare for each child. Would it not be stupid for our voters to save the 50 cents a month and defeat the school bonds and worry along with temporary wooden shacks?

Of course it costs money to build schools and educate our children, but what we have to pay under our public school system is dirt cheap compared to what a parent would have to pay for private instruction?

The working man who usually has the most children to rear is the man who is going to put these bonds over, and the man with means and those holding large tracts of unsubdivided property should be willing to put their shoulders to the wheel and vote for the bonds and thereby help the family man and at the same time boost his city—which, of course, in the end will react to his own benefit.

Dobinson Players Are Offered Screen Part

Hollywood reached out yesterday to capture one of Glendale's best-known residents. It was learned this morning that Mary Isabelle Alpaugh, leading ingenue of the Dobinson Players' stock company at the Playhouse theatre, has been offered a contract with the Metropolitan Picture corporation. The offer was declined.

This is not the first time Miss Alpaugh's work has resulted in offers of screen contracts, but apparently, she is one of the increasing number of young actresses whose love for the spoken drama is sufficient to outweigh consideration of the monetary advantages the screen offers. An official of the film organization witnessed a performance of "Wedding Bells," the present offering of the Dobinson company at the Playhouse, without the company being aware of his identity.

French railway receipts last year were 20 per cent greater than in 1922.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13.—Peace officers of Southern California today are seeking Frank H. Wentworth, alleged bank robber, who escaped from the county jail Tuesday, it is reported by Chief Jailer John Croushorn.

This metropolis is the mecca for more celebrities. Paul White-man, jazz king, arrived today. Carmel Myers and May McAvoy lost no time in hurrying home from New York and Rome, to arrive in the rain. And the crowds are getting so thick in the Biltmore lobby that house detectives are inviting "non-residents" of that hostelry to "move on" when they park themselves too long in the lounging rooms.

Among the monied men registered at the Biltmore is William Boyce Thompson of New York. He predicts prosperity for the Southland.

Gas-heating engineers named by Mayor George E. Cryer next week will begin a test of various home appliances to prevent further monoxide death toll, it was reported today. William Allen of Huntington Park is recovering today from near asphyxiation.

In the B-8 II class, Robert Clark was master of ceremonies. Willie Keller spoke on Lincoln's life. The B-8 III's heard Martha Shelton read "The Life of Lincoln." Throughout the building pictures of the martyred president were hung, flag-draped, to honor the day.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

A golden flood of rain for the farmers.

A devastating downpour for bay cities of Northern California.

A storm from Siskiyou to San Diego in the last few days has spread joy and done damage, but withal it was necessary.

Last year California suffered somewhat for water. This year it will likely get more than a normal rain total. All of which goes to prove the need for conservation of stream flow, the storage of water in mountain lakes, in seasons of plenty.

The rain has made Southern California most beautiful for the spring season. You will make no mistake inviting eastern friends to come west this year. Do not neglect the opportunity. Bid them welcome to Glendale.

One cannot be too careful driving motorcars on slippery pavements. Much better leave the car at home on rainy days and avoid the possibility of crash, methinks.

California's highways are built for sunshine, it would seem. The black oily surface becomes like glass when wet. And mixed with the fine blown dust of drier days, the oily scum is as treacherous as rubber ice for a few hours until Old Sol smiles away the danger.

If you do drive during the rainy weather, and most people have to, be careful.

Inspiring men are rare, particularly those who throw off the mantle of materialism and devote their lives to service.

Roy L. Kent, Boy Scout councillor for many years, today tells of the life of James E. West, national Boy Scout executive, who recently visited the southland.

Starting life as a crippled orphan West overcame all difficulties and mounted to the pinnacle of SUCCESS in the SERVICE of others MORE FORTUNATE than himself.

That is a great achievement which will live long in the memories of all who come to know James E. West.

February is a short month, but it should be a busy month for

COUNCIL SETS HEARING FOR SYCAMORE

Change of Name to Chevy Chase Will Be Taken Up February 19

The City Council today named Thursday, February 19, as the date of hearing on the proposal to change the name of Sycamore Canyon road to Chevy Chase drive. Bert Farrar of the Chevy Chase estates addressed the council, calling attention to the development in this tract, and deploring that $1,500,000 would be spent here within the next three years, in extending a road through to Flintridge and in opening up this 1600-acre tract. The City Planning commission recommended the proposed change at the meeting of Monday, February 9.

The council ordered the city attorney to draft an ordinance establishing a commercial district on Pacific avenue at Palm drive. All protests were denied at hearings on improvement of Ruberta avenue and Cypress street, and resolutions were adopted ordering in the work. All protest were denied at the hearing on assessment for improvement of Elm avenue, and a resolution adopted confirming the assessment roll.

The action of February 5, adopting a resolution ordering issuance of bonds for the improvement of Glenoaks boulevard, was rescinded because the notice of hearing had not been published, and a new resolution to the same effect was adopted.

El Rito Hearing

The hearing on issuance of bonds for improvement of El Rito avenue was continued one week. The council accepted invitations from the Glendale public library and from the Greater Northwest Improvement association to be present Saturday night at exercises in connection with the new library branch in the northwest section. A communication from the Glendale Realty board regarding selection of a substitute member on the assessment board was referred to the committee of the whole.

The council granted the H. A. Wood Co. of the Acacia Hills tract a permit to resurface certain streets in this tract with crushed rock and oil, the proposed specifications having been approved by the city engineer. A petition to change Tyler street to South Sycamore Canyon road was referred to the City Planning commission.

On recommendation of City Manager Virgil B. Stone, the council transferred from the unappropriated reserve $300 for maintenance of sewer in the business district, $750 for the Glendale Humana society, $300 for expenses of the city attorney, $174 for charity and welfare, and $150 for the park board.

Safety Zones

The council passed an ordinance establishing additional safety zones on the city streets, at prominent intersections. An ordinance was passed creating a commercial district at Park avenue and San Fernando road. An ordinance was offered providing for appointment of a board of examiners to examine plumbers doing work in the city of Glendale. An ordinance was offered prohibiting heavy traffic on unimproved highways.

A resolution was adopted authorizing Mayor Spencer Robinson to sign, on behalf of the city, a contract with the Los Angeles county Board of Supervisors, dated February 13, by the terms of which the city agrees to pay the county $1.05 a day for maintenance of persons confined in the county jail for violation of city ordinances.

Industrial Zone

The recommendation of the City Planning commission that the district west of the Southern Pacific tracks, bounded on the north by Lake street and on the south by a viaduct drive, be placed in the industrial zone, was referred to the committee of the whole.

The council adopted resolutions of intention to improve streets in the Lake street district, and to install water pipe on Sonora avenue. Resolutions were adopted approving the Central avenue assessment diagram, ordering vacation of a portion of Walnut drive, and a resolution of intention to improve portions of San Fernando road, Eulalia street and other streets was adopted.

Old-Fashioned Songs Featured at Meeting

Old-fashioned songs were sung by Glendale residents at the Community sing held last night at the Glendale Intermediate school, with J. Arthur Myers in charge. "Jingle Bells," "Annie Laurie," "Little Tommy Tinker," were among some of the numbers sung. H. S. Robinson's song chart was used. Mr. Robinson singing the verses and the audience joining in on the chorus. A. L. Ferguson, vice-principal of Glendale High school, was present and spoke at the school bond issue.

What would you do, after dining in a restaurant, you discovered that some one had walked off with your coat and had left a note in the pocket of the one you were forced to accept as substitute—a note written in a woman's handwriting which said: "Tonight must end it?" Well you probably would do what John Graham, the young New York lawyer, did. You would go at once to the address on the note. But Graham found a deserted house and

Harvey R. Cheesman, Glendale Scout executive, attended the Court of Honor and other meetings, later motoring to Burbank to be speaker at the "Fathers' Night" at Providence school. He spoke on "Abraham Lincoln and the Needs of the American Boy." He told of the development and training of American citizens through Scouting. His talk was illustrated by stereopticon slides of camping trips taken by Glendale Scouts.

WAR DEBT WOULD BE PAID IN GOLD

English Periodical Suggests Entire Mine Output Be Paid to U. S.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Recent widespread agitation urging that a supreme effort be made completely to repay Britain's debt to the United States in fifteen years has induced the "Spectator" to suggest that the debt be paid off entirely in gold bullion through the utilization of the entire output of the Imperial gold mines.

The mines now produce $250,000,000 worth of gold annually and the "Spectator" suggests that their output be increased to the maximum without reference to the present world demand.

"The Americans would be forced to accept it," says the "Spectator," as the debt is a gold debt, and the cost to the British Government would appear, to be simply the cost of production and shipment of the gold plus the interest on the compensation to the present mine-holders.

"This, of course, envisages the abandonment of the gold standard in this country. Hence, in addition to the specially obtained gold from the mines, our present gold reserves of $750,000,000 could also be sent to America."

The "Spectator" admits the plan may not be workable, but points out that it is just as practical as other schemes which are being proposed daily.

Gold Fish Bowl Cause Of Jersey Home Fire

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 13.—For the first time in the history of the Newark fire department, a bowl of gold fish has been listed as the incendiary which started a fire. Rays of the sun passing through the heavy glass of the fish bowl and the water within in the sun parlor of the home of Dr. Morris Zimmerman were magnified to such an extent that the cane seat of a chair was set afire. This started a blaze that brought out two fire companies.

Cat Survives Fire In Warehouse Unhurt

OWOSSO, Mich., Feb. 13.—A pet cat went through the fire that recently destroyed the warehouse of J. A. Byerly here, and escaped unhurt. The animal sought shelter under a projecting board in the cellar, and, despite the fact that the fire burned for hours and tons of debris fell into the cellar, it was taken out by workmen cleaning away the debris.

Handbag muffs are on the market.

Rural District Church Replaced By 'Luxuries'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 13.—Charges that automobiles, radios, and other "luxuries" are supplanting the churches in rural districts throughout Oklahoma will be made when the Methodist Episcopal convention meets here February 13 to discuss plans for creating more interest in the country churches, it was said. Officials of the denomination declare that during the past few months many rural congregations have advised their pastors that they can no longer support a church.

New Strain of Rye Is Resistant To Disease

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A new strain of rye, resistant to three of the worst grain-crop diseases, has been developed by Dr. E. B. Mains, of the Purdue agricultural experiment station, who told the American Phytopathological society of his work.

Some difficulty was experienced in obtaining a resistant strain that would breed true; but, after four years' work, the new variety not only is constant in its breeding but resists leaf rust, stem rust and powdery mildew, said Dr. Mains.

GERMAN BAND HAS BEEN REINSTATED

New York Sees Red-Coated Musicians for First Time Since War

By WILLIAM PARKER
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—For the first time since the war "dot little German band" is making its appearance in New York City. Apparently the contributions in Wall and Broad streets have been encouraging, for one band has been making the streets of the financial district its headquarters for several days.

Possibly the bands had been playing about town for several weeks, but New York did not take official notice of them until "Silent Night" appeared to be in the music library of the German bands on Christmas day, although one more versatile band occasionally offered a cornet solo of "The Holy City."

It is like getting back to old times now to stroll through the uptown theatrical district of a night and hear the familiar "Die Wacht Am Rhein" from the curbstone musicians. And, just to show there are no hard feelings against any nation or race, one band on upper Broadway last night was playing "Where the River Shannon Flows."

Mrs. Maund has had a set of bells installed in the belfry and has retained the gallery and built an organ in it.

Canada Ranks Third In Its Natural Resources

MONTREAL, P. Q., Feb. 13.—Canada ranks third among the nations of the world in natural resources, according to Sir Vincent Meredith, president of the Bank of Montreal, in an address before the institution's annual stockholders' meeting.

"Canada possesses half of the forest area of the British Empire," said Sir Vincent. "The Dominion's mines produced $214,000,000 worth of metals last year, and the surface has been barely scratched. Canada stands second in the world in coal deposits. Its water power resources are estimated at 18,000,000 horsepower. Its transportation facilities are not excelled anywhere in the world."

Russian Church Takes Paris Seminary Site

PARIS, Feb. 13.—The Soviet government, having suppressed the seminaries and theological colleges in Russia, the Metropolitan Evlogie, the accredited head of the Russian church in Europe, has decided to establish a theological academy in Paris and for that purpose has contracted to purchase the sequestered German church and schools in the Rue de la Crimée from the French government. The premises are ample, and a staff of thoroughly competent Russian professors and sufficient students are available.

Russian Mayonnaise Is Suggested As Change

PARIS, Feb. 12.—For a delightful change from the ordinary salad dressing try Russian mayonnaise. Cook an egg in boiling water for five minutes. Peel, and remove the white. Put the yolk into a bowl; mash well, stirring thoroughly until very creamy. Add salt, pepper, mustard to taste, the juice of a lemon and enough oil, little by little, to thicken the mixture. Continue the stirring and mix in one-half cup of thick cream. Chop the white into small pieces; and add the last thing. The dressing should not be too thick.

HERO OF BOOKS IMPROVEMENT IS FIGHTING AT HARBOR FOR LIFE PLANNED

'Sandy' McPherson Getting Better After Long Illness
At Home In Hemet

By HOMER KING
For Southland News Service,
HEMET, Feb. 13.—A. L. McPherson, hero of much western fiction, is making a "last stand" here at his home after weeks of sickness in the Loma Linda hospital. His is more than a twofold tale of adventure for "Sandy" McPherson, as his friends know him, has had a most spectacular career. His work and physique have lent themselves to prove that truth is as strange as fiction.

When but 11 years of age he ran away from home and lived for many years among the Indians. Such a start was bound to lead him into strange and perilous adventures, the accumulation and dispersing of many fortunes.

Jack London, it is said, knew Sandy and drew on his experiences for his Alaskan tales. He was one of the first over the Yukon trail. In his novel, "Burning Daylight," London tells of the changes that came over the Yukon during the gold rush.

Alaska Gold Rush
McPherson was there and, it is claimed, was an intimate of Burning Daylight, helping him construct the railway that revolutionized mining in that bleak territory. To this day he bears the scars of freezing that were his portion of the struggle at 65 degrees below zero.

In Ralph Connor's novel "The Patrol of the Sun Dance Trail," are many scenes very familiar to McPherson. The Sun Dance Trail passes through his own ranch in Alberta, Canada, and the occurrences told in the story are well known first-hand by his neighbors and friends.

McPherson it was who threw his private fortune into raising a company of soldiers in Hawaii before the United States had taken a hand in the world conflict. His trips to the orient are numbered by the score.

Slowly Recovering
"Sandy" is now making an amazing fight to turn back from the "great journey." For weeks he has hovered, this way and that, but his marvelous constitution stands him in good stead and it is possible that his free stride may again draw the eyes of the wondering as he goes about.

About eleven months ago McPherson headed a business expedition into Mexico. Believing that he carried a fortune in gold the Mexicans, it is said, poisoned his food. He and his partner hurried to the border and had just crossed into the United States when Sandy collapsed. He has never fully recovered from the poisoning.

For the last few years he has made his home in Hemet, where he has lived quietly with his wife, the strenuous life but a memory.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Feb. 13.—This city will be divided into twenty-two districts for the purpose of taking the census now decided upon, and a census taker will be assigned to each district, it is announced by F. S. Webster, city clerk, who has been made director of census. The census will require three days to take. The day for beginning work has not yet been set.

Father Dubbel of Santa Maria will take charge of the parish of the Holy Trinity Catholic church, taking the place of Father Leguayador, who resigned recently. Father Dubbel is here this week to become acquainted with the parish needs before Father Leguayador's departure, which will be February 19. Father Leguayador will leave at once for France for an indefinite visit with his aged mother. He will go east by way of Chicago and will sail from New York February 28.

Burbank plumbing contractors who have taken to contract to install sewer connections have discovered that no one but the Jones Contracting Co. can do this work until the system has been turned over to the city. They have appealed to the City Trustees and have been informed that nothing can be done. They have consequently offered property owners an opportunity to revoke these contracts.

Mrs. M. B. Warfield of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, who has been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. M. C. Green, of 529 Olive avenue, has gone to San Diego for a brief stay and will return here.

Mrs. Frank Caldwell of 1059 Tujunga avenue has been called to Washington by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Jones, who visited here last year and made the acquaintance of several Burbank people.

The Misses Edna and Frances Mayhew of 28 West Kenneth road and Mrs. R. G. Swigert of 801 Orange Grove avenue motored to Daggett recently to visit with Rudolph Rheinhold, who is connected with mines there.

GAS PRICES CUT

MACON, Ga., Feb. 13.—The Macon Gas Co. has cut the price of gas to consumers in an effort to regain the business of manufacturers who had gone back to the use of coal and coke.

By CAL FISHER
For Southland News Service,
BALBOA, Feb. 13.—With the balmy days of spring enticing pleasure seekers to this Orange county harbor, a large number of improvements under way are noted by the visitor.

W. S. Sparr, of Glendale, has just completed a new bathing pavilion on his Corona del Mar estate which is in charge of Captain T. W. Sheffield. The Newport Harbor post, American Legion, will build a 50 by 50 foot club-house as the first unit of its building plan on bay frontage. The Balboa Palisades club has let contracts for improvement on its present building and the erection of several bungalows. And a Harbor Athletic club is in the ring for boxing shows this summer by a new pavilion.

With two yacht clubs, a country club, many new residences, more boats than ever and a new fishing barge for anglers anchored in the bay, Balboa and Newport give promise of a big summer season.

Modern Pavilion
The pavilion on the Sparr estate has been pronounced the most modern of any on the coast and will cater to exclusive society. With a large frontage on the Newport channel pool of sandy beach which has been most popular in other years, the broad steps to the porch of the club-house lead to a canopied retreat that commands a view of the beach, bay, channel and ocean. Deck chairs will accommodate 400 people—everyone, from the old and young to the grand children.

A spacious lobby, 100 feet long and 60 feet deep is done in hardwood for dancing, but Captain Sheffield warns that no one in bathing suits, either wet or dry, will be allowed thereon.

On each side of lobby are dressing rooms, beauty parlors and in the rear will be found more dressing rooms, shower baths, laundry and cafe service for 500. Back of the building is a children's playground. Floodlights for bathing at night also have been installed at Corona del Mar.

The Palisades club's program calls for a bathhouse, clubhouse and boathouse at Rocky point on the Channel pool, according to J. J. Forbes, president. Spanish and Norman design will be blended in the three buildings.

At Athletic Club
With a view of making Newport a mecca for athletes the Harbor Athletic club has obtained the services of Anton Deraso, as swimming instructor, who also will have charge of shell crews in the developing of college oarsmen. The school playground will be used until other property is developed for an athletic field where indoor baseball, basketball, volleyball and discus-throwing and track work will be done both by day and under flood lights at night.

All necessary equipment for the gymnasium, which will feature boxing, bag punching, club swinging and trapeze work, has been secured, according to C. A. Thompson, chairman of the organization committee. A membership list of 60 has been accepted already.

The South Coast Improvement association has been reorganized with Tom Talbot, chairman of the board of supervisors, presiding, to advertise this and other Orange county beaches this season as he sportsman's paradise.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Feb. 13.—An effort is being made to revive the local custom of holding Easter sunrise services at the summit of the Eagle rock. The Chamber of Commerce is the project, according to C. W. Young, president, who believes that this was one of the most characteristic community ceremonies of the former Eagle Rock City and should not be allowed to die.

It has been estimated by those behind the movement that $300 will be required to finance it. The Chamber of Commerce has no fund for this purpose and the finance committee is trying to evolve some plan by which the necessary money may be obtained. "Other communities without anything like so appropriate a place hold Easter sunrise services," says Mr. Young, "and Eagle Rock residents should be glad to respond to such an appeal as we are considering."

John C. Duncan of 5128 Maywood avenue has been awarded the contract for installation of the sewer system at Hermosa beach and will move to that place for a period of eight months, or until such time as his work is finished. Mr. Duncan will rent his home in Eagle Rock temporarily.

The Community Players held an open night meeting at the Women's Clubhouse last night. The community sing was led by Arthur Lewis. A one-act play directed by Elgie Lowry Fischer was a feature.

A meeting of the North Slope association was held at the home of Mr. John T. Bailey, 1833 Hill drive, on Tuesday night, February 10 at 7:30 o'clock. At this time the report of our street lighting committee was received and a

GUESS SOLUTION OF MYSTERY PLAY

Robinson Players to Present
"The Night Call" Next Week at Theatre

"Who killed Richardson?"
"Who fired the bullet which put an end to the career of the Bootleg King of New York?"

These are the questions which will be on the tongues of everybody in Glendale next week. It is the theme around which is woven one of the most fascinating mystery-dramas ever written, "The Night Call," which will be presented at the Playhouse Theatre for the week of February 16 by the Robinson Players stock company.

Richardson, acknowledged head of the New York bootleg ring, is murdered. Suspicion falls on every one of a dozen persons any one of whom could have been the slayer. The mystery element is so well sustained that, as with "The Bat," the police departments in the cities in which it has shown have been the guests of the theatre managements in an effort to solve the riddle before the end of the third act.

The Playhouse theatre management proposes to follow the same procedure here. A general invitation to the police force to be the guests of the theatre will be issued, and, in addition, to commemorate the presentation of the play here, a guessing contest will feature the entire week's run.

Make You Guess

At the end of the third act every member of the audience will be handed a blank slip, on which he will write his guess as to who killed the king of the rumrunners. To this he will attach the stub of his ticket and sign his name. Ushers will collect the guesses.

If he wishes he may assign his guess to any other competitor. At the conclusion of the following Monday night's performance the person credited with the greatest number of correct guesses will be awarded $20 in cash. The next highest number will win a season pass for two to the Playhouse.

Production rights to this play were secured with difficulty in New York, where the dramatic critics unanimously voted it the premier play of its kind of the season. Further announcements regarding the guessing contest appear elsewhere in this issue.

full discussion of the same had with reference to Hill drive. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Blair and children from New York have arrived to visit her mother, Mrs. Hattie Marchant, and grandmother, Mrs. S. O. Richardson of Ridge View, on their way to the Philippines. Mrs. Marchant accompanied them there.

Slocombe is hereby granted a temporary permit to conduct, for compensation or hire, an institution for the care, custody and treatment of mental defectives, said institution to be known as the Windsor hospital, located at 1100 East Windsor road. Opinions

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

The "crazy" comedy that the famous team of Montgomery and Stone made famous, "The Wizard of Oz," stands a good chance of being dragged into court because an infringement of screen rights is at issue. Larry Semon made his version of L. Frank Baum's comedy and put it into the Forum theater. Now along comes a New York picture, "The Wizard of Oz," which is head, made the original screen version, ten years ago with "Smiling Billy" Parsons in the title role, and that this company held exclusive rights to the Baum play and that these rights never passed to Semon or anyone else.

With this argument Mr. La Plante puts his old version of "The Wizard of Oz" into a North Main street theatre, running day and date with the Forum's presentation.

It seems strange that Mr. La Plante, who claims the exclusive rights to "The Wizard of Oz," didn't seek that restraining injunction the day the picture opened at the Forum. If he has controlled the rights for ten years, certainly he had plenty of time to draw the papers.

You wouldn't be using this protest as a publicity stunt, would you, Mr. La Plante? It has been done. It seems unlikely that a comedian of Larry Semon's long standing on the screen would turn literary "pirate" in order to stage the "Oz."

William Fox did the original screen version of the French play, "The Two Orphans," fully ten years ago. About two years ago Griffith did his version of the same play and called it "Orphans of the Storm."

There have been two versions of the story as inspired by Rudyard Kipling's poem, "A Fool There Was." Mary Pickford did the screen version of "Test of the Storm Country" two different times.

Two versions of Rex Beach's "The Spoilers" have been made, the first with William Farnum and Tom Santschi staging the famous fight scene; the second by Goldwyn, with Milton Sills and Wallace Beery staging the fistie battle.

All of which would indicate that producers have learned just how to handle these duplications. Larry Semon wasn't asleep all this time.

Literary "piracy" has been known to have been committed in the fillum industry, and by its sister industry—the stage.

Only a few months back the stage had its turn in court in the case of "The Bird of Paradise." A woman in Los Angeles proved that it was her idea that was incorporated in Richard Walton Tully's stage success. She was given a substantial money judgment as damages.

When Enid Bennett was starring under the Famous Players-Lasky banner she appeared in a screen play called "Happiness." Laurette Taylor's husband, J. Hartley Manners, wrote a play of the same name some time before, in which Miss Taylor starred.

If we remember rightly Famous Players was restrained from using the title, although the copyright laws say that a title cannot be copyrighted. The court held that using the title "Happiness" for the screen play was an infringement.

These differences are bound to arise, whether one be producing onions or screen plays. Some of our best-known authors get many of their ideas for stories, novels and plays from front-page stories in the daily press. That isn't plagiarism, however. That's ability to see and elaborate on a good thing.

It is claimed that Alexander Dumas, the French novelist, "borrowed" a great many of his best-known works from others. His "Three Musketeers," it is claimed, was so "borrowed."

The present trend, as far as the fillums is concerned, seems to be to get its material hot from the bookshelves containing the latest fiction and from the stock of New York plays, failures and otherwise.

The "costume drama" stuff seems to have run its course after virtually "breaking" some of the fillum stars. The flapper idea has grown stale; the western drama seldom is seen in the larger theatres. Only the sex stuff continues to be in great favor with our ex-pawnbrokers.

APARTMENT AT PREMIUM IN GAY PAREE

Merchant Offers Piano to One Finding 3-Room
Suite in City

By ALICE LANGELEIR,
For International News Service.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—A piano for an apartment is offered by a piano maker who is beginning to despair of ever finding a happy home in the French capital. In his window a sign reads:

"A superb piano, value 5,000 francs, is offered to the person who can procure an apartment of three rooms in the center of the city."

A free piano—not a son to pay, but many steps to take. It means walking up and down the streets tactfully questioning concierges, the porters who hold the keys to all houses, and greasing their palms as well, sounding out proprietors, inquiring at agencies and looking for windows without any curtains. Finding an apartment in Paris is almost as difficult as looking for the proverbial needle, and it is likely that the piano maker may have to make a bed of his piano and sleep in his little shop for some time to come.

Painter Solves H. C. L. A painter who has been without lodgings for some time and unable to find a suitable atelier as well, has just had the original idea of constructing a house-boat and floating it on the Seine, near the bridge of the Invalides. Thus, he can fish from his window, take a bath easily and paint marine landscapes without ever going near the seaside.

Thanks to the generosity of Mr. Rockefeller, France's American uncle, the long-proposed School of Decorative Arts will be constructed during the coming year. The generous American is spending more than 5,000,000 francs upon it and, in addition, he is spending $300,000 on the reconstruction of the spire of the Rheims cathedral, $100,000 for the restoration of the Palace of Fontainebleau, and $600,000 to repair what time and weather have done to Versailles and the gardens.

The English week is being suggested for school children whose parents find that they work too hard during the school term and have too long a summer holiday. In France Thursday is the Saturday holiday for school children, together with Sunday, and the greater share of these days is spent in getting home lessons. If the English week-end were adopted, the home tasks could be done on Saturday afternoon and leave Sunday free for relaxation, but this would mean a loss of seventy-four hours a week. Too much to learn in too little time is the complaint of the parents because of the three long months of summer holiday.

Drinking Cups The minister of public instruction says that the number of hours lost would be made up in the summer, but fears that, after the good time on Sunday, Monday morning will be a veritable "blue" one. The English week-end, he argues, is very well for the ones who work the English day, that is, eight hours with out interruption, or only a very short one at noon for lunch, unlike the two long ones granted to every French person. Well-earned repose is legitimate enough, but not laziness.

Sanitary Drinking cups are a novelty in Paris, where the public drinking fountain still retains its old tin goblet attached to a chain over a little warning which reads: "Rinse the goblet before using."

But there is one Frenchman who has heard of sanitary cups. Every morning about eight o'clock he wends his way to a certain little fountain, folds a clean piece of white paper into a receptacle and drinks copiously of the fresh water, which, with a large slice of warm bread, constitutes his frugal breakfast. Needless to say there are many onlookers.

Little Theatre Plans Sketch for Pasadena

Glendale Community Service's Little Theatre Players will be represented at the formal opening of the junior activities in Hotel Huntington, Pasadena, on Saturday, February 21, when a group of artists from this organization will present a one-act play, "Where But in America?" under the direction of Gabriel Ravanelle. The playlet will be given in the afternoon. Mrs. Max Lynn Green, chairman of drama activities for Community Service; Mrs. R. Ernest Tucker and Paul Morgani will take part.

Other members of the special study group are working on another short play, "Joint Owners in Spain," with Mr. Ravanelle and a third number is to be begun soon. It is expected to produce these in the spring. Progress is reported by the study group, which meets on Tuesday evenings in the Glendale Intermediate school. Arrangements for joining may be made through R. Ernest Tucker, superintendent of recreation, 150 South Brand boulevard.

PLEA FOR ECONOMY SOUNDED ON BONDS

Attorney Frank L. Muhleman Presents
Facts and Figures on Educational Costs Here After Investigation

Editor The Evening News—The Citizens' School Bond Campaign committee has issued a statement setting forth certain data, and suggesting questions and answers affecting the condition that now exists in the schools of Glendale, and representing what will likely result if the proposed bond issues are not voted.

Doubtless the members of the committee have made investigation of these conditions and their motives are of the best. In fact, the committee should be complimented in at least endeavoring to do for the people as a whole that which the people as individuals should do for themselves, and that is to acquire, furnish and disseminate information of the conditions existing in the schools of Glendale.

Accepting the information contained in the statement given out by the committee as correct, we find upon an examination of the same the financial condition of the Glendale high school district and the Glendale city school district to be in substance as follows:

Bonding Capacity
The gross bonding capacity of the Glendale city school district is $2,705,748.50. Outstanding bonds, $800,000.
The gross bonding capacity of the Glendale city school district is $2,447,790.50. Outstanding bonds against this district, $981,750.

If we add to the Glendale high school district the amount of the proposed bond issue, to-wit, $1,200,000, we would have a total bond issue against the high school district of $2,000,000, and adding the $1,200,000 to the Glendale city school district, makes $2,181,750.

Interest Charges
I do not know the exact rate of interest the bonds that are issued bear, or what the proposed bonds will bear, but if they bear 6 per cent there would be a charge for interest on the high school district of $120,000 a year at this time, which would gradually decrease as the bonds are retired. If the bonds were to run for 40 years, there would be required to be paid into the sinking fund to retire them an additional sum of $50,000 a year. This amount in the sinking fund would have to be maintained until the last bond was paid. This makes a total charge on the district the first year of $170,000, which, as before stated, would gradually decrease as to the interest as the bonds were retired. Of course this amount would be enlarged if the bonds run for a less period than 40 years. Assuming that the bonds draw interest at 5 per cent, of course, there would be a reduction to that amount.

Under the same conditions, the Glendale city school district bonds would draw interest the first year of $130,905, and if the bonds ran for 40 years, a sinking fund would have to be maintained by the payment of additional sum annually of $54,543, making a total charge at this time of $185,448 per year. Of course this would be increased if the bonds run for a shorter period.

Taxes for Schools
We therefore find that if the bonds are voted, there will be fixed annual charge at this time on the bond issues against the high school and the city school districts of $335,448. This sum of money would be for the acquiring of sites and erection of school buildings. In addition to this, of course, the schools must be maintained, teachers paid, books purchased and all other expense to carry on the schools. This would mean an increase over our present expense for sites and buildings annually of $204,000, which would gradually be decreased by reduction of interest on bonds retired, assuming that no further bonds would be voted, which is unlikely.

It is recognized by all persons who have investigated that the largest part of the taxes paid in California, and particularly in Los Angeles county, is for the maintenance of our school system. Of course, we all want good schools and efficient teachers, and all good citizens, whether they be parents or not, have in mind the education of the children and young people. The phenomenal growth of Southern California, and of Glendale in particular, has brought about a condition that no doubt is a matter of considerable worry to those who have charge of our schools, and I believe that they welcome constructive criticism. At least, they should not object to it.

Public business such as the schools, should be conducted as nearly as possible upon business principles. That is, we should have and obtain for educational purposes that which we can afford to have. There comes a time in business when the managers of the business find that they are unable financially to do many things that they desire to do, just as an individual in his home frequently goes without things which he cannot afford to have though he desires them very much. I believe the same principle should apply to our schools.

with the home builder. When the taxes become such that they amount to a rent on the property, people will seek homes elsewhere. I do not say that that point has yet been reached in the city of Glendale, but if the ratio of increase in taxes continues for the next few years as it has in the last three or four years, doubtless it will be reached and the growth of the city checked.

It is somewhat interesting in connection with this phase of the question, that the figures shown in the pamphlet would seem to indicate a tendency in that direction at this time. I refer particularly to the ratio of increase in the growth of our schools, the ratio of increase shown in the pamphlet for the year 1924 in the high school district being 19 per cent as compared with 35 per cent in the year 1923, 33 per cent in 1922, a falling off between the years 1923 and 1924 of 14 per cent. The ratio of increase in the elementary schools is not given in the pamphlet. However, the actual number of pupils enrolled is given. This shows that for the year 1925 there was a number of increase in the number of pupils than in any year since the year 1920, the figures back of that year not being shown, the increase for the year 1925 showing 325 while the year 1924 showed 1181, a falling off in increase in the elementary schools of 836.

If this ratio of increase continues in our schools, it will not be long before there will be no ratio of increase, but rather a ratio of decrease, and the question of adding additional schools to the city of Glendale will become a moot question, for we will have plenty of room to take care of the pupils that attend, assuming that this will continue. Of course, I do not believe that it will occur, and I sincerely hope that it will not, but it is a warning signal to those in authority and to the people generally of the danger of increased taxation.

Rates Elsewhere
I have before me some figures compiled under the supervision of H. A. Payne, county auditor of Los Angeles county, showing the valuation of property in the various high school districts of the county, the high school special rates, and the amount of the levy. So far as I have been able to observe the union high school special rates of only three districts are as high as Glendale, to-wit: Antelope Valley Joint Union high school, showing a high special rate of 75 cents, Excelsior Union high school, showing a 75-cent rate, and Pomona city high, a 75-cent rate, while the Whittier Union high has a rate of 29 cents, Los Angeles city high a rate of 39 cents, Covina Union high has a rate of 44 cents, and various other districts have rates ranging between those amounts. Glendale having a rate of 75 cents.

The valuation shown in this compilation, of the Glendale Union high school district, is $54,740,370, the amount of the levy at this rate for Glendale Union high district is $405,562.27. When we add to this the amount levied in the elementary schools as well as the high school, the figures total a large sum of money with little hope of it becoming less, particularly if we add to the burden of taxation the fixed charge for the payment of interest and retirement of additional bonds.

It is doubtless true that the schools of Glendale, both the high and the elementary, need money at this time, for equipment and additional seating capacity, but would it not be advisable for bonds to be proposed for our immediate needs, awaiting developments in growth of our city to vote such additional bonds as the needs of our schools require? This appeals to me as a practical way out of the matter. Surely it is questionable whether we should more than double our present bonded indebtedness for schools merely upon the assumption that our phenomenal growth will continue.

Pleads Economy
The people are directly interested in this matter. Left as it is in the hands of the school boards and school authorities we find they have submitted a proposition to us to either accept or reject. We now have two high school sites and buildings erected at considerable cost to the taxpayers. If proper use is made of the present school facilities, cannot all of the young people of high school age secure an education? For in the final analysis is it not true that expensive buildings and large sites do not educate, but rather the desire and the earnest effort of the individual to acquire knowledge that places him in the front rank?

The country has been set the example by its chief executive to advocate and encourage economy, thrift and industry. The same things are being advocated by the governor of our state. In fact, it is necessary for business men at the present time to carefully watch their business and economize in order that they continue in business. Should not the same rule be applied to the administration of our public matters, including our schools?

diate relief. The secretary was directed to draft a letter to the postmaster on this subject for transmission to Washington.

Progress was reported on the telephone situation and everyone was pleased to hear that the Chamber of Commerce is lending its good services to keep Glendale telephones in Glendale.

A resolution was passed thanking L. C. Brand for the magnificent gift to the city of Glendale of 800 acres in the northwest section for park purposes.

John Jens made a strong appeal to the members to lend their influence on behalf of the new $25,000 Knights of Pythias hospital to be constructed in Burbank. The secretary was directed to write a letter assuring those having charge of this work of the association's moral support of this worthy project.

A. J. Van Wic, having been especially invited to the meeting, spoke briefly on matters of general interest, and the association endorsed his candidacy for reelection to the office of city clerk.

S. C. Kinch, vice-president of the Glendale Advancement association, spoke on behalf of the school bonds and stated that long before the new high school can be completed the Broadway plant will be badly overcrowded, and that there will be from 900 to 1200 pupils to immediately place in the new school. "Not to provide adequate and convenient schools will tend to depopulate our city," he stated.

As an example he referred to two neighboring cities to his knowledge: City No. 1 was slipping because City No. 2 had better school facilities. City No. 2 came to realize its weak spot, and got out of a comprehensive school program which included a high school even in excess of its requirements. The result was that city No. 2 commenced to grow, bank deposits doubled in a short time, and the city kept on growing, until after four years it was necessary to put on additions to the high school. Instead of city No. 2, it was now city No. 1 which was slipping and never did catch up.

Mr. Kinch in urging the carrying of the high school bonds further stated that a lot of people did not realize that it is five and six miles for the children to travel to the present high school and that Burbank with a population of something over 15,000 was supporting a high school and that Glendale's northwest section alone will sooner or later contain a population of 50,000 and that already has a considerable population.

AMERICA HIGH IN RANKS OF MOTOR CAR

Uncle Sam, Canada Operate Eighty-one Per Cent of Machines Made

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The United States and Canada operate 81 per cent of the motor vehicles of the world and account for 90 per cent of the annual production, according to Percy Owen, chief of the automotive division of the department of commerce. Leading all other nations in motor transportation development, the two countries dominate the export trade.

"The position of the American automotive industry in foreign markets would, therefore, appear unshakable were it not for certain less promising factors which are just beginning to be apparent," Owen said.

Last year American manufacturers built more than 4,000,000 cars and trucks, shipped 221,000 and assembled 106,000 more abroad. The rest of the world built 250,000 and exported, perhaps, 70,000.

"But—and this is the crux of the matter—foreign producers during the past year and a half have actually accomplished quantity production and are also beginning to use the progressive assembly plan hitherto peculiar to America, and their export trade has increased thereby in much larger proportion than has our own."

May Hit America
"If this development continues, it will be difficult to forecast the effect on foreign markets, which now form a 'safety valve' for the American industry."

Foreign producers, with a smaller domestic market for their machines, are fast becoming an important competitive factor to American cars in the general world markets.

The position of American automobile manufacturers with reference to world markets differs widely today from conditions in 1920. It was explained. Four years' production in Europe was restricted as the result of the intensive efforts in all lines of industry to concentrate on war materials.

Thus America was the only nation in a position to supply the demands of other nations and, consequently, in 1920 had established a record for foreign trade in automotive products.

Today European countries have recovered from the devastating effects of the war and have resumed production on a large scale. Naturally these countries have again entered the export field and are beginning to make themselves seriously felt in foreign competition.

America Loses
"In 1920 the United States held 73 per cent of the automotive export trade of the world and Canada 9.8 per cent. The other producing countries divided less than 18 per cent. In the first six months of 1924 the United States held about 54 per cent of the world trade and Canada 17 per cent, while the other countries increased their share to almost 30 per cent."

"The significant feature of this development is the quickness with which it has occurred, for the change in the comparative standing of most of the foreign producers has taken place since 1922."

Nine countries make up the principal automotive production areas of the world—the United States, Canada, France, Italy, the United Kingdom, Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Austria. Every producing area has produced its share in export trade, as compared with 1923, with the exception of Canada, Italy, Germany and Austria; only Canada and Germany have shown a material decrease.

France's best automotive markets are Belgium, Luxembourg, the United Kingdom, Germany and Spain. Italy's chief markets include Switzerland and the United Kingdom, and Italy is also steadily strengthening her position in Australia, which for years has been the chief passenger-car customer of the United States. The United Kingdom industries depend upon Australia and the Irish Free State.

A different line-up marks the American output. For passenger cars the Latin-American markets contribute the standing of the United States, although Australia is by far the principal purchaser. British South Africa, Japan and the United Kingdom buy many American cars. For trucks, our best markets are found in Japan, Sweden and Australia. British colonial areas take the bulk of the Canadian shipments.

GIVES LUNCHEON
Mrs. Albert K. Boeckmann, of 679 Arden avenue gave a luncheon today for Mrs. Charles E. Reed of Los Angeles. Guests were: Mrs. Frank Houston and Mrs. Emmanuel Welsch.

Must Pay Customs Duty

MRS. JULES S. BACHE, wife of New York broker, lives in Paris eleven months of the year, so court has ruled she must pay the assessment levied on clothing and jewelry she sought to have admitted free of customs charges.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Mrs. Jules S. Bache, whose husband is senior member of the banking and brokerage firm of J. S. Bache & Co., Broadway, has been assessed approximately $26,000 by Collector of the Port Philip E. Elting for failure to declare as dutiable clothing and jewelry valued at $18,000, when she arrived November 15 on the French liner Paris.

Neglect to pay the assessment will result in confiscation of the property. This is the second decision against Mrs. Bache who has maintained a residence in Paris since 1900, living there eleven months of the year.

In both cases the wife of the broker cited her foreign residence as proof of her right, under the tariff laws, to bring personal belongings into the country duty free.

The United States Court of Customs Appeals, to which Mrs. Bache took her case in 1911 after she had been assessed several thousand dollars by Collector of the Port Loeb, ruled that a wife, "admittedly in amicable relations with her husband, cannot acquire a residence in Europe when the husband, as the head of the family, has elected to establish the family residence in the United States."

Mr. Elting, after making it clear that Mrs. Bache had made no attempt to conceal the clothing and jewelry seized on the French liner's pier, announced his findings were based on the Court's ruling.

State Magazine
Mrs. O. H. Spradling, president of Glendale Federation, Parent-Teacher associations, and other P-T. A. leaders in Glendale, are reading with interest the first volume of "Parent Teacher," the official publication of the California Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations. Printed on fine quality paper, carefully edited and artistically arranged the magazine gives promise of becoming a thriving publication. A picture of Mrs. Hugh Bradford, state president, is a feature of the first issue. There are also a message from the president and other articles on such subjects as "Is Your Child Fit for School?", "Publicity and the P-T. A.", "Lunches for the School Child," "Radio for Elementary Schools," "Bank, School and Community."

High School
Over 200 parents of Broadway High school pupils "went to school" last night. The event was arranged by the Parent-Teacher association. An assembly period was held in the auditorium. Mrs. W. R. Wichert, P-T. A. president, gave greetings. George U. Moyse, principal, talked on the bonds. Selections were given by the school orchestra, directed by Mr. Ulmer. Members of the boys' and girls' glee clubs presented "The Mikado," under the direction of Mrs. Charles A. Parker. During the sketch Donald Diederich sang a clever song urging parents to vote for the bonds. Later a school program was carried out, with ten-minute periods and five-minute intermissions, affording parents an opportunity to carry out their children's programs and meet the various teachers.

Glendale Intermediate
Officers and chairman of Glendale Intermediate Parent-Teacher association had luncheon yesterday at the school cafeteria. Miss Gladys Sharpe, patriotic chairman, and Norman Whytock, principal, were among the twenty-five persons in the company. After luncheon Mrs. Mae Rosenberger, president, led in a detailed discussion of the association work. The next general meeting of the association will be Friday, February 20, at the school, where the pupils will present a patriotic program, arranged by Miss Sharpe.

DINNER DANCE IS PLEASING AFFAIR

Exchangeites Enjoy Event at Sunset Canyon Country Club Last Night

Members of the Glendale Exchange club and their friends, together with visiting Exchangeites from Los Angeles, Hollywood and Long Beach, participated in a dinner dance last night at the Sunset Canyon Country club. William Baker, president of the local club, presided, and Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson was toastmaster. President Baker called on various members of the club for short talks during the dinner, while Postmaster Jackson led the community singing. More than eighty persons attended the affair and enjoyed the dancing. Arrangements for the event were in the hands of a committee headed by Postmaster Jackson, who was assisted by George Thomas.

Legion's Drum, Bugle Dance Well Attended

A large crowd attended the dance given last night by the bugle and drum corps of Glendale post, No. 127, American Legion, at Hahn's auditorium, 109-A North Brand boulevard. Throughout the dance a carnival spirit prevailed. Feature numbers were a serpentine dance and a balloon dance, with appropriate prizes. Music was furnished by Burke's six-piece orchestra.

Another dance will be given by the corps at the same place on February 23, it was announced. Members of the corps who were in charge of arrangements were: Glenn Mapes, K. F. Butler, George Grist, John Collins, Robert Stevens, W. Secrest and William Bode.

Since the doll craze was started men frequently are seen in Paris shops buying dolls for their wives.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE PAPER FLOWERS

"Come on, Baby Bunty, let's play tag!" quacked Lulu Wiggily, the duck girl, to the little rabbit child on their way home from school one day.

"Nopie, Lulu," laughed Baby Bunty, "I'm going in to see Uncle Wig." And Bunty darted up the path that led to the hollow stump bungalow. "Uncle Wig" was the pet name Bunty called Mr. Longears, the rabbit gentleman. And, as it happened, Uncle Wiggily was at home when Bunty tapped at the door with one paw. In the other paw she held something behind her back.

"Hello, Bunty!" cried Uncle Wiggily, as he let the little tyke in. For Bunty was a "tyke"—and a tyke is a little rabbit girl who likes to play tricks.

"Hello, Uncle Wig!" laughed Bunty. Then Mr. Longears noticed that Bunty kept one paw behind her back and he asked her.

"What have you there that you are hiding from me, Bunty?"

"They're some flowers I made in the kindergarten class at school today," answered Baby Bunty. "Smell my nice flowers, Uncle Wig!" She held out a bunch of roses, beautiful red roses, to Mr. Longears. He took a long sniff with his pink, twinkling nose, and then a queer look came over his face as he said:

"Why, this is very funny, Bunty!"

"What is funny, Uncle Wig?" she asked, but you could tell by the little tyke's face that she knew well enough.

"Why, it's very funny, Bunty, but I can't smell your roses at all," said the rabbit gentleman. "There is no perfume to them, as there should be. I must be catching a dreadful cold, so that I can't smell. Oh—ker-choo! A-ker-choo! Oh, I'd better see Dr. Fossum!"

"No! No! You aren't catching cold!" laughed Bunty. "Those are only paper flowers that I made in school. All the kindergarten made paper roses and they don't smell, less you put perfume on them. I brought the paper flowers for you, Uncle Wig, but they don't smell! Ha! Ha! I fooled you!"

"I should say you did!" laughed the bunny uncle. I wondered why I couldn't smell the roses." Then Uncle Wiggily got a cookie from Nurse Jane's pantry for Bunty and the little rabbit girl.

She Has Child Romance

Holland, idolizing PRINCESS JULIANA, 15-year-old daughter of Queen Wilhelmina, takes lightly as a childhood romance the much discussed "affair" of the princess with a Jewish cantor in Amsterdam. It is said that during a holiday from school the princess found the cantor, a widower with children and attractive, chanting services in a synagogue and was smitten.

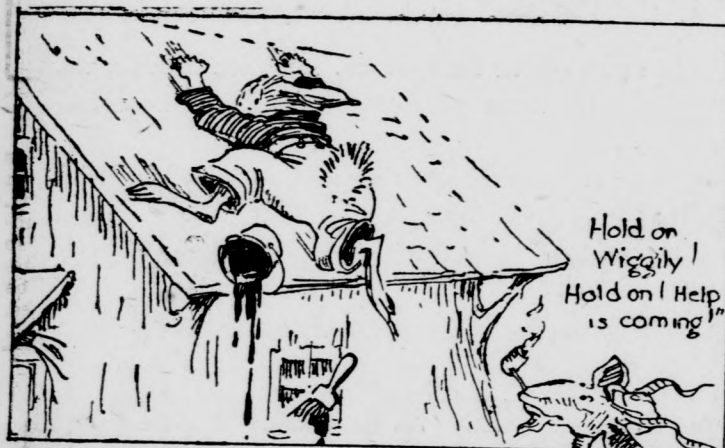

WATCH EXPERIMENT

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—Business houses and industrial plants are watching closely the work of the chlorine gas plant for treating colds at the University of Pennsylvania. If the experiment is a success, many factories are expected to build similar plants for employees.

PURSES ARE LOCKED

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Woman nowadays may quote Shakespeare's "Who steals my purse steals trash," but they don't believe it. A peep into a purse of underwear bag might steal a secret, so the newest bags have locks, and the owners decline to tell where they keep the tiny keys.

THE GATEWAY

Astrollogers, scientists and the dictionary all agree for once: Sirius is the brightest of the stars. Which brings us down to Rin-Tin-Tin, the Warner wonder dog of the movies. His master, Lieut. Lee Duncan, offers the curious information that Sirius, or, as it is more commonly known, the dog star, was in ascendancy at the time Rin-Tin-Tin was born, which, as everyone knows, occurred on a battlefield in France. No wonder Rin-Tin-Tin is called a lucky dog with the dog star itself as his guardian.

Rin-Tin-Tin's horoscope is as interesting as that of a human being. It tells of adventures and glories which many a man would be proud to claim.

His screen laurels have almost overshadowed his other claims to fame. Although almost everyone knows that Rin-Tin-Tin was the star of "Where the North Begins," there aren't so many who know that he is a champion high jumper with a score of medals to his credit.

In spite of all that, Rin-Tin-Tin is unspoiled. Many can tell tales of "they knew him when," without making him quiver an eyelash. His reputation is untarnished and scandal has kept away from his door. With his wife, Nannette, he maintains a modest kennel, not even possessing a motor car of his own, though he does enjoy riding when friends coax him out. "Find Your Man," the Warner picture, is a story of the North woods, and Rin-Tin-Tin went in for rigid training during its production.

June Marlowe, who has just been signed on a long term contract with Warner Bros., and Eric St. Clair head of an interesting supporting cast which boasts such names as Charles Mailles, Pat Hartigan, Lew Harvey, Fred Stanton and Charles Conklin.

"Find Your Man" is showing today and tomorrow at the Gateway Theatre.

DOBINSON PLAYERS

The most popular comedy-drama which has ever shown in Glendale will close its two weeks' run at the Playhouse Theatre after tomorrow night's performance. "Wedding Bells," Salisbury Field's cleverest play has delighted larger audiences for the duration of the run than has any other of the Dobinson Players' offerings. It is the last presentation by this company which will run for that length of time. Beginning Monday of next week the new policy of a weekly change of play will go into effect and will continue throughout the present season. The theatre will also be open, from now on, for the full six nights a week and matinee Saturday.

The first offering under the new policy will be "The Night Call," an absorbing mystery-drama of love, romance and the activities of the illicit whisky rings of the Atlantic coast. This play, written by Adeline Hendricks, was accredited by the press of New York as the cleverest of its kind ever brought out in that city. Woven around the mysterious murder of Captain Richardson and threaded with a delightful love theme, the story deals with the never-ending warfare between the forces of law and the powerful group which controls the eastern bootleg ring.

The mystery element is so strong and its solution so well concealed that the Playhouse management will appeal to everyone who sees the play to refrain from telling their friends who the murderer is. Further than that a contest is to be conducted and suitable prizes awarded to the two persons who gather the highest numbers of correct guesses from their friends and supporters.

NEW YORK CLOSING
By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—With the exception of the oil stocks, which sold higher on the favorable developments in petroleum industry and a few of the specialty and industrial shares, in which there were pool operations, the stock market displayed a reactionary trend today. Wheat opened 5 to 9 cents a bushel higher in Chicago and Winnipeg, but corn was instantly subjected to profit-taking and this upset the other grains which declined about 6 cents a bushel. With this low level as a low starting point they instituted another rally. An early bulge in oil stocks followed reports that all of the important buyers of crude oil had marked up prices to the highest level for the movement. The reports were opportune for bulls in the oil stocks, since a low starting point had been sold on profit-taking since the middle of last week and needed some such stimulus to attract low-buying of them. As a rule the oils held their new gains and remained a strong spot until late in the session.

Persistent buying of American Can, which replaced Cast Iron Pipe as the speculative leader, sent the stock about 5 points up, to the highest price of the year. Motors were irregular with General Motors declining to the lowest point since being placed on a six per cent dividend basis. Nash Motors down about 10 points and Studebaker steady. Call money advanced to 4 per cent in the third hour. Stock sales today 1,223,700 shares; $15,819,000.

PROSPERITY SEEN FOR COMING YEAR

R. G. Bixler, General Head
Of Penney Store, Back
From Eastern Trip

R. G. Bixler, Glendale manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store on North Brand boulevard, predicted increased prosperity for 1925 and one of the liveliest fall seasons in many years today, following a tour of eastern business centers. "At present conditions in the east are much the same as they are here—rather slow—but everyone is optimistic and things are rapidly opening up. I look for increased activity during the spring months and a great stimulation this fall," Mr. Bixler said. "It was gratifying to note just prior to my return to Glendale that steel mills at Hammond, Ind., my home town, had just increased their payroll to had just increased their payroll to 8000 persons. This is the largest number ever employed at the Hammond mills in their history. Mills in other parts of the steel belt are opening up in a similar manner."

Attends Convention
"I was surprised to discover during my trip that eastern merchants are in many respects far behind the mercantile men of California. Business systems and stores are many years behind those of Los Angeles and Glendale."

More than 900 representatives of the J. C. Penney Co. attended the convention at Atlantic City. Six hundred of these were store managers from all parts of America. The convention lasted four days with interesting and helpful programs throughout. An important feature was the large list of widely known speakers who addressed the delegates. Heading this list was William Jennings Bryan, who delivered the main address at the annual convention banquet at the Ambassador hotel. Other speakers were George H. Bushnell, Dr. Russell H. Conwell, Dr. James E. Lough, Arthur Nash, F. R. Payne, E. C. Sams, Dr. Francis Burgette Short, Fred B. Smith, Dr. Thomas Tapper, Harold B. Wells, Frank B. Willis, Dr. Stephen S. Wise and J. C. Penney.

Sun Replaces Clouds Over Northern Parts

rivers which had been running at flood stage were reported falling. The bay district bore the brunt of yesterday's storm. In San Francisco 1.52 inches of rain fell in 24 hours bringing the season's total to 19.70, or more than five inches above seasonal normal.

Santa Rosa Rainiest
Santa Rosa continued to hold the record for the "rainiest city" in the state. In the past week more than 12 inches of rainfall has been recorded there, Orlando coming next with 6.23 inches for the same period and Red Bluff and San Francisco tied for third with 6.11 inches.

The storm spent its force north of the Tehachapi, the rainfall in southern California being gentle but welcome.

Aside from the great benefit resulting in northern California through the thorough soaking given the earth and the filling of the storage reservoirs, the storm brought great good through the heavy snowfall recorded in the mountains.

At Summit nearly six feet of snow was reported while at Truckee two feet on flat land was reported. Several movie companies were rushing there to take winter scenes today.

EXPLAINS SCHOOL DISTRICT MERGER

Consolidation at Present
Time Is Practical, Says
W. E. Hewitt

W. E. Hewitt, chairman of the School Bond Publicity committee, has submitted the following to The Glendale Evening News for publication:

"About a year ago, or, to be exact, on March 7, 1924, the committee of the Chamber of Commerce appointed to investigate the feasibility of consolidating the high and grammar school systems of Glendale, made a report, from which the following is quoted:

"We also recommend the consolidation of the grammar school district and the high school district as being productive of the greatest efficiency, both from the standpoint of education and operating economy.

"In order to effect this consolidation it would be necessary to secure the signatures of the majority of heads of families in the La Crescenta, Tujunga and Sunland districts to a petition to annex to Glendale for school purposes, and it is our opinion that if the people in these districts were informed of the educational advantages to be obtained by annexing and being a part of a city school district instead of a county district, as at present, that is, advantages such as special supervision in the various lines of study, which supervision is too expensive for the country districts to enjoy, they will be willing to annex to Glendale for school purposes. This will result for them not only in better educational facilities, but will also be an aid in the upbuilding of their respective communities through the added facilities inducing people to purchase or build homes there."

Meeting Held
Following this report, a meeting of the school boards of Glendale with representatives from La Crescenta, Tujunga and Sunland was held in the Glendale Union High school building, at which C. W. Ingledue presided, at which meeting the representatives of the districts outside of Glendale asserted very positively that it would be impossible at this time or at any time in the near future to secure annexation of their districts to the city of Glendale.

However, in making the present plan of expansion the two school boards have worked together in order that the plan when completed would fit into a consolidated school system without any loss.

Under these conditions the school bond publicity committee feels very certain that it would be impossible to bring about the suggested consolidation of the school districts at this time or at any time in the very near future and this issue should not be confused with the proposed school bonds to be voted upon next Tuesday, February 17.

SCHOOL BOND PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

W. E. Hewitt, Chairman.

Money Is Needed
"I am in favor of the school bonds and I will vote for them February 17, rain or shine."

"I favor the bonds because I know that the school districts need money to meet the demands, the children are here, and more are coming every day. We must build for them, that they may have school rooms and grounds to receive the opportunities and privileges which are theirs."

"I will vote for the bonds because I have confidence in the school boards and I know that they will administer to the best of their ability and in a wise and judicious manner."

Indian Pottery Relics Found In Rock Cabin

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Feb. 13. Forty-three different kinds of pots have been made from 300 fragments of pottery unearthed by Max Schrabist, archaeologist of the Wyoming Historical society, who has been making excavations at Rock Cabin, on Wyoming Mountain. The pottery was the work of the Lenape tribe of Indians, who frequented this valley. The designs on the vessels vary on nearly every piece.

Boy Scouts interested in Indian lore are assisting in the work, and Rock Cabin has proved a repository of Indian relics. Mr. Schrabist believes that it was used as an Indian shelter rather than as a permanent habitation of the tribe, which many erroneously believed to be a tribe of the Delawares.

LEAGUE PENNANT TO LIGHTWEIGHTS

Fleaweights Have Chance to Win Flag; Both Teams Defeat Citrus

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

Spilling the Citrus apple-cart and dumping it all over the lot was the little trick that the two Glendale teams played yesterday, when they journeyed to the Lemon high school and gave the Azusa lads a honest-to-goodness trimming in both games, 42-9 in the lightweight tilt and 16-1 in the 110-pound scrap.

By virtue of these two victories the two Glendale teams are all fixed in the Central league. The lightweights are declared official league champions because the champions, Alhambra, played an ineligible man. The fleaweights ineligible man, and will probably have to play another game with some other higher-up team to settle the dispute finally.

Jack Sturgess had a big hand in putting down the Lemons in the first game. During the whole hour he was responsible for no less than fifteen points. Sturgess is taking the place of Archie Neel, who recently graduated, and relieved Coach Butterfield with the fashion in which he tossed the casaba at the Citrus and Covina hoops. Wilbur Harrison ran Sturgess close for high-point honors, totaling thirteen, just one basket less than the Glendale center.

Start in Early

The lightweights started whooping it up immediately after the ref tossed the ball up for the first time. During the first quarter the Dynamiters scored fourteen points, enough to clinch the game. This period proved to be the high-water mark in their scoring, for they began to fall off as the competition decreased.

Coach "Hairbreadth Harry" Hicks' little crew of 110-pound tossers socked their opponents around the court in much the same fashion as their bigger brothers. Although they didn't succeed in scoring nearly so many points, they held the little Lemons down to one slim point, which was made on a foul throw which fluttered around the rim of the hoop and trickled in.

"Peewee" Reed did all of the Glendale scoring in the first three quarters, as his teammates were absolutely unable to find the basket. Alley Lovell shot and shot, but still he could not tease the pill to slip in. Finally, in the last quarter, Lovell succeeded in getting his one basket of the day. The locals dwindled along during the first three quarters on a total of six points, but, in the last chapter, they got ambitious and after searching diligently for the little iron ring, found it for ten markers.

IS THE GOLDEN AGE THE GLAND AGE?

In a recent press dispatch, a London physician stated that the Golden Age of man bids fair to be the glandular age, when salivary glands are taken into consideration. He said further that the average man believes that his thoughts, actions and feelings are controlled by his mind. But it is possible to show that mind is itself under the despotic sway of the ductless glands, which generate in the system the chemical fluids on which depend health, happiness and morality.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, prepared in tablet form, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Glandogen, for men and women, is obtainable at Ahlmann Drug Co., Brand, Harvard. Free booklets on request.—Advertisement.

Stingy in Allowing Runs

DAZZY VANCE, termed the most valuable baseball player in the National league last season, and HUGHIE McQUILLAN, hurler for the Giants, didn't go out of their way to accommodate opposing batsmen. They dished out runs in mighty small lots, according to official figures.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News.

Dazzy Vance, voted the most valuable player to his team in the National league and known somewhat as a strikeout artist of parts, is idling away his winter vacation in sunny Florida. He spends most of his time fishing. And if the fish in Tampa bay and parts fail to get away with any more than the National league batters did on Vance last year these are lean days for the finny tribe.

For official records show that Vance was the stingiest pitcher in his circuit in the matter of allowing runs. He permitted an average of just 2.16 runners to cross the plate in a regulation nine-inning game.

In other words, the opposition got two men across and the third man stood on third and looked longingly at the plate.

This remarkably low average helped Vance lead the league in number of victories won, with twenty-eight. Vance's 262 strikeouts helped him compile this remarkable average, of course. Hugh McQuillan, grabbed as a gambler by John McGraw a few seasons back, ranked second to Vance in effectiveness. Hugh permitted an average of but 2.69 runs a game. Incidentally, he permitted the fewest number of actual runs of any of the regularly worked hurlers. They nicked McQuillan for sixty-eight tallies. McQuillan's work showed what a brainy hurler can do. His arm has not been at its best since 1922. What the old bone lacked, however, Hugh's head supplied. And unless some of McGraw's youngsters come through in dazzling style McQuillan may be using his head considerably in 1923.

Railway Asks Damages When Car Hits Pilot

Jamieson, who narrowly escaped with his life, refuses to reimburse the company.

KENNETH WHITE WINS GOLF MEET

Triumphs Over H. Thompson; J. M. Whittingham In Contest Playoff

By playing a steady, consistent putting game, Kenneth White, 347 North Orange avenue, won the Community Service putting contest yesterday at Cornwell & Kelly's by making the eighteen holes in 26 strokes, in the play-off. Harold Thompson, 400 West Broadway, took second prize with 30 strokes, while J. M. Whittingham, 422 East Harvard street, finished third with 32.

White made the first nine holes in 11 and the second nine in 15. Thompson made the first nine in 12, but took 18 on the second nine. Whittingham took 16 on the first nine and cut it down one stroke coming in. The scores follow:

White	Thompson	Whittingham
111	111	112
111	111	111
112	214	221
112	214	221

The three players were tied in the first round of the tournament with 22 strokes each. David Hanna got fourth place with 35. Russell Thompson and H. M. Morton were next with 36 each and F. P. Davis was seventh with 39. Others in the tournament, in the way they finished, were: L. R. McMillan, A. Endicott, C. A. Greenlee, Ray Goode, Max L. Green, C. J. Hatz, W. P. Potter, George B. Doran, J. S. Thompson, W. F. Macpherson, George H. Bentley, Earl Shook, Ray Bentley and Park Arnold.

Another tournament is being planned, complete details of which will be announced on the sport page of The Glendale Evening News in the near future.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Paavo Nurmi is either beginning to go stale or else he is holding back in the interest of steaming up a spectacular race against Willie Ritola. Men who follow track sports closely seem to be divided on the question.

In one month Nurmi has run in races and in practice trials well over sixty miles. That is asking a lot of a human being, no matter how mechanically he performs.

There is a feeling that he could have put the worlds two mile indoor record below nine minutes when he first arrived here. The fact that he merely shaved Ray's record last Saturday is taken by some to indicate the sapping of power.

On the other hand, there are those who say that Hugo Quist, who is handling Nurmi, is the Tex Rickard of the indoor track, and that in good time he will pack the Madison Square Garden at high prices to see Ritola and Nurmi fight a duel.

So long as Nurmi turns in records the crowd cheers. But it is obvious that spectators who have been assembling to see him run of late have been disappointed in his lack of color and his refusal to "step on it," when the crowd demands.

His natural desire to run a race as he wants to run it and under conditions that appeal to him have already caused grumblings. From Boston comes a complaint that he flatly declined to run a two mile handicap race as advertised; he demanded that the race be a scratch affair and that the men—all Finns—whom he picked, be his opponents.

In Newark after the two mile mark had been passed he let down palpably while the spectators urged him to put on steam. The admonitions fell upon deaf ears. When he left the track there was hardly a cheer.

The mere clicking off of records—even world's records—is likely to become monotonous in time. What the crowd likes is hair raising bursts of speed and skyrocket finishes.

Personally the writer gets more kick out of a flashing glimpse of Loren Murchison getting away to one of his lightning starts than three miles of the unemotional Nurmi.

Unlettered Tombstone Carried Away by Thief

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

By Special Leased Wire to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The Washington Americans and the New York Giants, as the writer predicted in this column, will be permitted to go ahead with their proposed barnstorming "continuation of the world series of 1924" this spring—but no future pair of championship contenders will be permitted in the future to engage in a similar shekel gathering expedition.

The matter of capitalizing the world series for a spring training junket was brought up by President Ban Johnson of the American league at the junior circuit schedule meeting in St. Louis, and the organization wisely decided to prevent any such future travesties of the baseball classic.

As had been pointed out, the league magnates found themselves powerless to do anything about the 1925 tour because there was nothing in the rules to prevent such a series after January 1. There had been a rule preventing late fall tours by championship contenders, but no one had thought of inserting a clause banning such tours the succeeding spring.

The decision to prohibit future exhibitions of the sort was as wise as the decision of the Giants and Senators to embark on this one was foolish. "Continuation of the world series" this spring was one of the most foolish moves from an advertising standpoint that two big league clubs ever conceived, for it could not but tend to cheapen the real world series. Ban Johnson was quick to see this and the league, at his suggestion was quick to act, even though it could not make its decision retroactive.

The American league also voted at the St. Louis meeting in favor of the Ebbets' plan of fixed, rotating, world-series games in the future. This will give the clubs likely to win the league championships an exact understanding as to which will have the opening dates, a matter of much convenience in planning for a series.

Ty Cobb is not a selfish ball player. He says he would willingly give up all his records in baseball—and they are legion—if he could only find a good second baseman for the Detroit team.

Cobb sees another season dawning without the least assurance that he will have a key-stone sacker of the calibre that he must have if he is to stand up and trade blows with New York and Washington. He says he is going into the 1925 fight, according to present indications, much as he entered the 1924 fight. Then he decided the moment spring came that he would put Pratt on second base and keep him there, hoping that he would make the team. Pratt did not do as well as had been hoped and Cobb finally got O'Rourke from the International league.

The change did not make much of a great infield out of the Detroit aggregation but his coming started a batting bee that did a lot to keep Detroit in the race. But O'Rourke can hardly be expected to do as much for Detroit this season, although he will get what chance there is to help Detroit win a pennant.

The Tigers have been mighty unlucky about their second baseman. They have been in the market a long time but they never seem to lead one who can keep up to the speed of the other infielders.

Ex-Service Men Move Up To Fifth Place; Results For Week Given

The American Legion team broke into the win column and moved up to fifth place in the City basketball league last night by defeating the Christian church team, 30 to 16, at the Harvard high school gym. The victory gives the service men a standing of .333, placing them ahead of the Standard Oils and the Christian church.

The windup of the fourth week of the City league sees several changes in the standings. The Hull trucks are still in the lead, with the Radios in second place. The standings follow:

Teams—	W.	L.	Pct.
Hull Trucks	5	0	1.000
Radios	3	1	.750
M. E. Church	2	1	.500
Calla Lily	2	2	.500

Standard Oil	1	3	.250
Christian Church	0	4	.000

Results First Week

Radios, 55; Christian Church, 10.

Results Second Week

M. E. Church, 25; Standard Oil, 15.

Results Third Week

Hull Trucks, 28; Calla Lily, 25.

Results Fourth Week

Standard Oil, 40; Christian Ch., 7.

Schedule Fifth Week

Monday night—Hull Trucks vs. M. E. Church.

Wednesday night—Christian Ch. vs. Calla Lily; Radios vs. Standard Oil.

All teams in the league, with the exception of the Legion and Christian church, will finish the first half of the schedule next week without playing extra games. The Legion team was a week late in entering, and the Christian church has one postponed game to play. By reason of being a week late, the Legion has to play the Radio, Standard Oil and Calla Lily to complete its first half.

The second half of the schedule will start February 23, and will run five or six weeks, depending on whether the seven teams remain in the league.

State Relief Map Is Criticized In Valley

MERCED, Cal., Feb. 13.—Charges that the peaks of the coast range in the California relief map installed in the Ferry building, San Francisco by the California Development association, obscures the visitor's view of the San Joaquin valley and make it appear an insignificant territory were made here today by Secretary A. R. Linn of the chamber of commerce.

"Dissatisfaction with this condition is marked throughout the valley," said Linn. "I would suggest that the map be lowered Yolo county fruit center. Al can see the great inland empire to the east of the coast mountains."

BETTER TIMES POINTED TO IN SEANCE

Especially True of America,
Says French Clairvoyant
For Year 1925

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service.
PARIS, Feb. 13.—Better times are in store for the world in general, and for the United States in particular, during 1925, prophesies Professor Raymond, France's leading clairvoyant, in L'intran-sigeante. This good fortune will not continue indefinitely, however, according to the professor, who foresees an American-Japanese war between the years 1942 and 1950.

"Commerce between America and Europe will continue to improve until it reaches an especially high mark in 1927," declares Professor Raymond. "In a short time President Coolidge will take the initiative of proposing to American bankers that they call an international conference for the purpose of restoring the finances of countries suffering from depreciated currencies."

"The French franc will not be stabilized before 1927, and during the coming year it will go as low as twenty-two francs to the dollar. French taxation will be increased during 1925, but in the following year it will be reduced as a result of new arrangements with Germany."

Herriot Doomed
"Herriot soon will be forced to resign and will be succeeded by a Caillaux-Briand government, which will establish closer working relations with Germany. A war of revenge from Germany is not to be feared; on the contrary, France and Germany will be drawn closer and closer together, important steps in this direction being taken in 1934."

"The interallied debts will be settled on a commercial basis which will wipe them off the slate, without their being felt in any way as a burden, so far as France is concerned."

"The Franco-German treaties, which will bring harmony on the Rhine, will be approved and guaranteed by the United States."

"There is no fear of a restoration of the Hohenzollern monarchy, although Bavaria soon will become an autonomous kingdom, ruled by the Wittelsbach dynasty.
Bavaria will act as a moderating influence on the extremist parties in Prussia."

"Russia will enter the League of Nations in 1926, after the Soviet chiefs have concluded favorable commercial treaties with France, Germany, Italy and England."

REPUBLICANS REFUSE TO JOIN LOCAL CLUB

Desire of Few To Participate In City Politics, Non-partisan, Results In Many Declining To Attend

A grave split in the ranks of the Glendale Republican club, predicted when a handful of members voted to enter the organization in the field of municipal politics a month ago, broke in full force last night when the club met to elect officers and conduct other business scheduled for the annual meeting.

Supposedly decided at the last meeting, the question of the club's participation in local political affairs was the subject of heated discussion during the full hour allotted to business proceedings, which finally resulted in one prominent Republican woman demanding withdrawal of her name from the list of proposed candidates for the municipal affairs committee, and a statement by Judge Frank H. Lowe in which he said he will be forced under the circumstances to sever his connection with the club and predicted that all loyal city employees will follow suit in accordance with the provisions of the city charter forbidding municipal employees to mix in city politics.

Make Protests
After Judge Lowe, J. C. Sherer,
G. H. Wende and others had argued against the club in local po-itics, Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, prominent woman leader of Glendale, who had been proposed as a member of the committee by President R. S. Person, arose and asked that her name be stricken of the list.

"I consented to serve on this committee at first, but seeing the amount of opposition I am inclined to believe it is not worth the price and that the best thing we can do is drop the committee altogether. I must ask that my name be withdrawn," she said.

Today Mrs. Hayward said that, after consideration, she had decided to allow her name to be placed on the list of community affairs committee members.

J. C. Sherer also stated today that he would remain until the club showed symptoms of entering municipal partisan politics. When that time comes, he will drop out, he said.

Judge Lowe took the floor after President Person had read the list of names selected by him to serve on the committee, and the resolution calling for participation in municipal politics had been rejected.

"I am averse to the resolution and to the injection of the club into local political affairs pursuant to the provisions of the resolution. Such an act violates the constitution of the club and is au-tomatically ineffective," Judge Lowe said. "I am against the move, because when this club was organized there was no thought of any such participation in the minds of the majority of its sponsors. The one thought was to build a virile Republican club for the promotion of the party's best interests in the state and nation."

Judge Lowe pointed out that hundreds of prominent and staunch Republicans have in the past few weeks refused to affiliate with the club in any way or have withdrawn from participation in its affairs because of the decision to enter local politics. Judge Lowe particularly objected to the clause in the resolution which authorizes the club to determine on the moral status and other qualifications of candidates for municipal offices.

"Such a clause as that will wreck this club if it remains in," said Judge Lowe. "Employees of the city cannot belong to any such club. Although the charter may not in technical language cover all city employees in its clause prohibiting participation in politics, such was the intent of the particular clause when it was inserted, and every loyal employee of the city will abide by the intent of the charter, not its phraseology."

George Woodbury, pioneer Glendelian, asked Judge Lowe if he had any suggestion as to a remedy for the objectionable clause.

"Strike it out entirely," was the judge's answer.

Against Rules
Attorney Wende, one of the champions of non-partisan municipal government at the previous meeting, pointed out that the clause authorizing the Republican club to pass on the moral status and other qualifications of office seekers, placed the matter squarely up to the club, branded the action as Republican and was strictly against the rules governing the club and municipal affairs.

"Under the circumstances there is not a chance in the world for the club to alibi its way out of a difficulty. This committee does not take the action, it is the Republican club that acts, the committee only can suggest," he said.

Only a small attendance marked the annual meeting of the Republican club which took place in the auditorium of the Wilson Intermediate school. The number present was less than that in attendance when the last meeting of the club was held. A minority of the membership took the step into city politics. Representative Republicans, among them Mrs. A.
H. Montgomery, Judge Lowe and others, declared from the floor that they had spent much time trying to get out a representative meeting of Republicans to the meeting, but that hundreds refused to associate in any way with the club under the present status.

Committee Members
Upon motion the list of names submitted by President Person for the municipal affairs committee, omitting Mrs. Hayward, was adopted. A number of the members voted "no" on the question.

The committee will include H.
V. Adams, H. M. Butts, W. H.
Richards, Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, Mrs. B. B. Moore, J. C. Sherer and James Everington, sr. Mr.
Sherer made it plain that only as long as the committee and the club can function in municipal politics in a non-partisan manner, will he remain in sympathy with the movement. He termed the whole affair an experiment which "might prove successful."

Officers of the club for the ensuing year were hurriedly named after the entire business hour had been taken up for discussion of the greater issue. A nominating committee appointed by the chairman, adjourned to one corner of the hall and drew up a slate of candidates. It was unanimously adopted.

R. S. Person will continue to head the organization as president. Other officers will be H.
V. Adams, first vice-president; J.
A. Endicott, second vice-president; Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, executive secretary; J. C. Sherer, treasurer, and W. H. Richards, secretary.

Members of the executive committee will be H. M. Butts, Mrs.
E. B. Moore, L. H. Wilson, F. A.
Clark and T. D. Watson.

In accepting the presidency again, Mr. Person said he "had expected to be relieved of the duties but that he was not inclined to ignore the call of the club at this time when leadership is so vital necessary for its success."

Members of the nominating committee prepared the state of officers and executive committeemen consisted of T. D.
Watson, Judge Thomas H. Cornett and Thomas M. Barrett.

Following the close of the business session a patriotic program, featured by an address on the life of Abraham Lincoln by Rev. John C. Kendrick, G. A. R. veteran from Pasadena, was given. Rev.
Kendrick was introduced by Rev.
C. R. Norton, member of N. P.
Banks post, G. A. R. After the address an informal social gathering took place.

BOOTH GHOST HOUSE RAZED IN CAPITAL

Residence Where Mad Actor
Plotted Lincoln Death
Is Condemned

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The ghosts that walk by night in the old Surratt house, at 604 H street,
Northwest, where John Wilkes Booth, the mad actor, and his co-conspirators plotted the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, are to be driven out, and the picturesque old building will be remodeled into a restaurant, with a modern front to hide the outline of the haunted house.

When Irvin Swartzman, of Alexandria, who owns the property, finishes the remodeling, the historic house will lose much of its interest to hundreds of sightseers, and neighbors will be convinced that the last of the weird tappings of ghostly fingers of the men and women who killed Lincoln have been heard in the little parlor on the second floor.

Mrs. Surratt's Part
Before the Civil War flamed out
Mrs. Mary Surratt, a widow from Surrattsville, Maryland, moved to Washington and took the house on H street as a rooming and boarding house; and it was there, according to the testimony given at her trial later, that Booth, his mind twisted and distorted by hatred of the man who had held the Union together, came on the afternoon before he killed Lincoln and arranged with Mrs. Surratt to provide him and other conspirators with horses for his flight through Maryland and Virginia, which ended when he was shot and killed by Boston Corbett, after being cornered in a barn.

Mrs. Surratt, with full knowledge of the plot against the President's life, left immediately in a buggy for Surrattsville, her summer home, to make the necessary arrangements. She was accompanied by Lewis Weikman, one of her boarders, whose testimony afterward convicted her and led to her execution.

Booth Kills Lincoln
And the next night Booth killed
Lincoln as he sat in the Presidential box at Ford's theatre.

Days before the assassination,
Booth, Mrs. Surratt and her son, John Surratt, had also sat in the house on H street and evolved a wild plan to kidnap Lincoln, but General Robert E. Lee surrendered the Confederate cause to General Ulysses S. Grant, and it was too late. It was then that Booth, bitter at the loss of the Southern cause, made up his mind to kill Lincoln.

From the time of Lincoln's assassination the house has gradually fallen into decay. Families moved in, but soon moved out, and more and more the rumor spread that the ghost of Mrs. Sur-ratt flitted through the murky interior, passing through closed doors that creaked, and tapping on window panes.

More than two years ago the steps which led up to the second story fell down, and since then the house has been a tumbling, grim reminder of the most tragic event in American history.
